In the twenty-two brief sketches which make up this little volume, the author has packed a good deal of pleasant information about well-known women, among them Alice and Phœbe Cary, Miss Mitford, Margaret Fuller, Harriet Newell, Mrs. Alden ("Pansy"), Dorothea Dix, Miss Frances E. Willard, and others. No attempt is made to be exhaustive; but enough is given to furnish an idea of what has been accomplished by each, and to arouse an interest which will lead to further investigation.

Little twelve-year old Gregory Brace, the real hero, is driven from the only home he ever knew by an uncle's cruelty, and finds a refuge with some German Jews in New York City. His one ambition is to earn money enough to get to Paris, there to join his Uncle Florimond, a French nobleman, about whom he has always dreamed and pondered. Very unexpectedly, however, Uncle Florimond comes to him, and the boy becomes the protector of the man. The story is exceptionally fine in its portrayal of character.

"A charming little prose idyl, almost reminiscent of 'David Copperfield' in its excellence." — Cleveland Sun.

MACDONALD, GEORGE, D.D., LL.D.

"He clenches the heart and soul of his reader with an iron grasp. Yet the power thus exerted, though the story is its vehicle, is independent of the story. It is in the man himself, and in the medium through which he beholds the world and its Creator, — things seen and unseen. He is pre-eminently realistic; not in the material, but in the spiritual, sense of the word. He looks directly and always into the soul of things, and that soul is to him the immanent God." — DR. A. TALBOT, CHARLES REMINGTON.

Charles Remington Talbot is a master of that style of literature in which ingenuity of plot is backed by brightness of dialogue. His books are "perfectly jolly" from beginning to end.

Honor Bright. 12mo, cloth, illustrated, $1.25.

The hero, in his fifteenth year, got into a towering rage with his guardian, and literally "ran away to sea." He found things entirely changed on his return. It is astonishing what a variety there is in boys with the seeds of manliness in them, and how many ways there are to success in this world.

NEW BOOKS—SEASON OF 1896.

THE ADMIRAL'S AID: A Story of the New Navy. By H. H. CLARK, Chaplain U. S. N. Illustrated. 12mo, cloth, $1.50.

Boys and girls all over the land will welcome this new volume in the "Joe Bently" series. In it, Chaplain Clark tells the story of life on one of the great cruisers of the White Navy, and continues the delightful sea experiences already so delightfully told in "Boy Life in the United States Navy" and "Naval Cadet Bently."

BIBLE BOYS AND GIRLS: How They Looked, Where They Lived, What They Did. By CALVIN DILL WILSON and JAMES KNAPP REEVE. Illustrated by George Foster Barnes. 8vo, cloth, $1.00.

This unique and original study of the boys and girls who occupy leading positions in the Bible story has been prepared by its writers after years of research. The young people whom it describes are studied from modern standpoints and in the light of modern information; but all this is made subservient to the Bible record, and the book, besides being intensely interesting, is one of the best aids to Bible study ever prepared for young people.

THE BOYS OF CLOVERNOOK: The Story of Five Boys on a Farm. By MARY B. BEAL. Illustrated by Etheldred B. Barry. 4to, cloth, $1.50.

A charming home story of five little boys who came, by one odd way or another, to the care of Aunt Rachel and Uncle John at Clovernook. Their doings and experiences, funny, serious, pathetic and exciting, make up the story, which is as fresh and breezy as it is strong and sympathetic. It is a book that young readers will return to with pleasure, again and again.

MOPSY: A Girl's Story. By KATE TANNATT WOODS, author of "Six Little Rebels," "Dr. Dick," etc. Illustrated by Schumacher. 12mo, cloth, $1.25.

A delightful story of a brave-hearted little city girl who took upon herself the care of her invalid mother, and, from keeping a boarding-house for working people, finally came to her own again. It is a charming story, full of all sorts of people, drawn in Mrs. Woods's delightful style, and certain to be as popular as her other stories.

THE GINGHAM BAG: A New England Story. By MARGARET SIDNEY. Illustrated by Amy Brooks. 12mo, $1.25.

This is Margaret Sidney's latest story, and is told in the quaint and realistic way characteristic of all her New England tales. No writer to-day more closely touches this element than does the entertaining author of "Five Little Peppers." The ups and downs of her country children in "The Gingham Bag" will be found enlivening and helpful.

GRACE HOLBROOK. By PANSY. Cloth, 50 cents.

A volume of charming short stories by this ever-popular author.

MAKING FATE. By MRS. G. R. ALDEN (Pansy). 12mo, cloth, illustrated, $1.50.

A new story by Pansy, in her earnest, direct and forceful style, in which the truths inculcated and the moral to be gathered are alike so skillfully treated in the telling that the reader is carried along irresistibly to the end, moved by the sentiment and held by the interest. "Making Fate" is the story of the spiritual development of certain young people who are acted upon by influences for good and by religious environments, against which they attempt to struggle, but in vain, for good must triumph.

THE CHILDREN'S HISTORY BOOK. Tales of the history of our native land, by the best writers of historical stories. 4to, illustrated, $1.50.

This artistic volume is devoted especially to the romance of American history. The stories are all bright, attractive, dramatic, absorbing, instructive and inspiring; and this beautiful book should make the boys and girls who read it better Americans and real patriots.

WORLD'S LITERATURE SERIES—Greek, Roman, English and American Literature Papers. By ELIZABETH ABBOTT. 4 vols., in box. Each volume, cloth, 50 cents.

An entertaining and instructive series of talks on the great writers of the world and their works.

THE PONKATY BRANCH ROAD. By SOPHIE SWETT. Illustrated by Bodfish. 12mo, cloth, $1.00.

No story-teller of the present day is more popular with boys and girls than Sophie Swett, who has been for years one of the "star" contributors to St. Nicholas, Wide Awake, Harper's Round Table and the Youth's Companion. The three stories included in this new book are tales of country life and adventure, told by Miss Swett in her brisk, charming and attractive manner. This book will be a great favorite with all boys and girls.

RHYMES AND SONGS FOR MY LITTLE ONES. By ADOLPHINE HINGST and ESTHER RUSKAY. Profusely illustrated by G. W. Picknell. Small 4to, $1.50.

One of the most delightful and artistic books of rhymes and pictures for the nursery and the kindergarten. Certain to be a favorite with mothers and children.

THEIR VACATION. By PANSY. Cloth, 50 cents.

Stories of thinking, striving and doing told in Pansy's practical and convincing way.

THROUGH THE FARMYARD GATE. Verses by EMILIE POULSSON. Illustrated by L. J. Bridgman. 4to, cloth, $1.25.

This is a new compilation of delightful verses by the author of the vastly popular "Nursery Finger Plays." It is a book that will be used in every kindergarten and nursery in the land, to the delight alike of parents and children.

THE TRUE STORY OF ABRAHAM LINCOLN, The American. By ELBRIDGE S. BROOKS. Fully illustrated. 4to, cloth, $1.50.

This is the third volume in the "Children's Lives of Great Men," written by the author of "Historic Boys," "The Century Book for Young Americans," "The Story of the United States," etc. The book does not talk of war or politics, but tells for young Americans the real, true, sympathetic, wonderful story of one of the greatest men that ever lived,— Abraham Lincoln, the American.

WHAT THE DRAGON FLY TOLD THE CHILDREN. By FRANCES B. COURSEN. Illustrated by Amy Brooks. 4to, cloth, $1.50.

Something entirely new and original in children's books. It is designed to introduce young readers to the work of famous poets; but it is told in delightful story form, and deftly mingles love of nature with love of literature. It is profusely illustrated by charming designs and by portraits of the great writers to whom the dragon fly introduces the children of Edgehurst.

Fatherland Books. Translated from the German, and among the best Sunday-school Library Books published.

The genuine religious sentiment, the touching pathos, the heartsomeness, as well as the dramatic interest of these stories of Hoffman, of Horn, and of kindred writers, are well known to the German reader; and we trust by our translation to make German thought better known to the youthful English reader, whom we hope to familiarize with scenes and incidents of the Fatherland.

PUBLICATIONS

OF

A. C. McCLURG AND COMPANY,

CHICAGO.

A Fearless Investigator. 12mo. (In press.)

In this fascinating novel the author has cleverly introduced the mysterious and the occult amidst the everyday affairs of a jolly company. The occultism is only a detail; and while adding zest to the story, it is not to be taken seriously, as the quite unexpected but thoroughly satisfactory dénouement shows. The development of the story is skilful and the language and style charming.

A. In Maiden Meditation. By E. V. A. 16mo, 217 pages, $1.00; half morocco, $2.75.

Here is a pleasant little volume of essays, of the "Ik Marvel" school and style, although up to date in thought, quotations, and references. It is something of a revelation and a privilege for the "gentle reader" to be thus led by a gentle maiden hand into many of the confidences of her thoughts, both in society and in her boudoir. These thoughts are always chaste as well as bright. . . . The thoughts upon religion are sound and helpful. The argument against according women the right to propose is delicate, feminine, and conclusive. This bouquet of pretty essays is tied by these strings: "After the Ball," "After Dinner," "After Church," "After a Wedding," "After One Summer." — The Evening Telegram, New York.

ABBOTT. Alexia. By Mary Abbott. 12mo, 177 pages, 75 cents.

As a piece of exquisite literary art, this little book deserves the attention of those who can appreciate what is unsophisticated in fiction. — The Beacon, Boston.

ABBOTT. The Beverleys. A Story of Calcutta. By Mary Abbott. 12mo, 264 pages, paper, 50 cents; cloth, $1.00.

This story introduces a more interesting set of characters than usually are found in the Anglo-Indian novel. . . That pet and despair of novelists, the harum-scarum girl, is handled with remarkable success by the author, who writes throughout with good taste and with a quick eye for the picturesque. — The New York Herald.

ACKERMAN. The Price of Peace. A Story of the Times of Ahab, King of Israel. By A. W. Ackerman. 12mo, 390 pages, $1.25.

Ahab's reign suggests good materials for an historical story, with such romantic characters as Elijah, Jezebel, and Ahab, its strong contrasts of religion, and its stirring events. These have been well wrought together in this book. Micaiah is the hero, Obadiah is skilfully presented, and Elijah appears at intervals. We regard this as an excellent work, alike as a story, a study in character, and a picture of the time. — The Sunday Journal, New York.

ADAMS. The Poets' Praise. From Homer to Swinburne. Collected and arranged, with Notes, by Estello Davenport Adams. Crown, 8vo, gilt top, 407 pages, $1.50 net.

It is excellent in execution and artistic in design. To literary people, works like these are not only of value, but most acceptable, and should be read by many. The extracts are intelligently arranged, and selected with judgment.

ARNOLD. The Life of Abraham Lincoln. By the Hon. Isaac N. Arnold. With an Introduction by the Hon. E. B. Washburne. Steel portrait. Seventh edition. 8vo, 471 pages, $1.50; half calf or half morocco, gilt top, $3.50.

It is the only Life of Lincoln thus far published that is likely to live, — the only one that has any serious pretensions to depict him with adequate veracity, completeness, and dignity. — The Sun, New York.

It is sure to be considered henceforth as an authority, not only upon the character and career of Lincoln, but upon the history of the period to which it is devoted. The Critic, New York.

ARNOLD. The Life of Benedict Arnold: His Patriotism and his Treason. By the Hon. Isaac N. Arnold. With steel portrait. 8vo, 444 pages, gilt top, $2.50.

Mr. Arnold has accomplished his task wonderfully well. There is a striking absence of personal bias; and if he has succeeded in removing some of the blots upon the character of Benedict Arnold, the impartial reader cannot but think that he is justified, and respect him for his denunciation of treason, while he maintains that the traitor was a man, and possessed at one time of a noble character. The book is notable for the range of historical information displayed. — The Traveller, Boston.

B. A Book of the Heavenly Birthdays. By E. V. B. Illustrated. 16mo, 218 pages, gilt top, vellum paper, in box, $1.50 net.

In this little work are brought together some of the choicest utterances of the best writers of all ages on the subject of the life hereafter. Among the quotations will be found many exquisite pieces from the greatest writers of all countries, a number being from living authors.

BACON. The Essays or Counsels, Civil and Moral, of Francis Bacon, Viscount St. Albans, Baron Verulam. Fourth thousand. Edited, with an Introduction and Notes, by Prof. Melville B. Anderson. Finely printed and bound. 16mo, 275 pages, gilt top, $1.00; half calf or half morocco, $2.50; limp morocco, gilt edges, $3.00.

This is the only edition of Bacon I have ever seen which looks as though one would take pleasure in reading it through at a single sitting. No other would be likely to appeal so strongly to the person of literary proclivities and refined taste who reads merely for the pleasure it yields, or to acquire certain general notions of an author, his style, and times. . . . It is, and it is likely for some time to remain, the reader's handy edition. — Prof. Albert S. Cook, of Yale University, in The Dial.

BACON. "Thoughts that Breathe and Words that Burn," from the Writings of Francis Bacon. See Elizabethan Library, page 10.

BALCH. The Bridge of the Gods. A Romance of Indian Oregon. By F. H. Balch. 12mo, 280 pages, paper, 50 cents; cloth, $1.00.

The author is undoubtedly a literary artist of a high order. In the construction of the plot, in the description of scenery and character, in the analysis of motives, in the handling of the dramatic scenes, and in the use of historical material, he evinces great ability. . . . The story is not only pure in tone, but instructive, and teaches a noble lesson of self-sacrifice. — The School Journal, New York.

BALDWIN. The Book-Lover: A Guide to the Best Reading. By James Baldwin, Ph.D. Eleventh edition. 16mo, gilt top, 222 pages, $1.00; half calf or half morocco, $2.50.

This is a delightful little book, and amply justifies both of its titles. The author writes in an entertaining and chatty style, not undignified by any means, and shows a thorough familiarity with the treasures of literature. His pages are adorned with choice bits of prose and verse culled with excellent taste from the best writers. The Examiner, New York.

BARINE. Bernardin de St. Pierre. By Arvède Barine. With a Preface by Augustin Birrell. See The Great French Writers, page 12.

BAZAN. Russia: Its People and its Literature. From the Spanish of Emilia Pardo Bazan, by Fanny H. Gardiner. 12mo, 293 pages, $1.25.

It is acute in analysis, broad and sagacious in reasoning, appreciative of the peculiar qualities of Russian character, and remarkable for a penetration and aptness of expression in literary criticism which are rare in the case of critics of a nationality different from that of the author considered. — The Congregationalist, Boston.

BIART. The Aztecs: Their History, Manners, and Customs. By Lucien Biart. Authorized translation from the French by J. L. Garner. Third Thousand. Illustrated, 8vo, 343 pages, $2.00.

M. Biart is the most competent authority living on the subject of the Aztecs. He spent many years in Mexico, studied his subject carefully through all means of information, and wrote his book from the view-point of a scientist. The style is very attractive, and it has been very successfully translated. — The Pittsburg Chronicle-Telegraph.

BIGOT. A Foreign Match. By Madame Bigot (Mary Healy). 16mo, 246 pages, paper, 50 cents; cloth, $1.00.

Few stories of the experience of vulgar American families abroad have been better managed in fiction than this. The people are much like those which Mr. Henry James has carried through many books. . . . The secondary characters are well managed, and the reader is made to understand throughout how despicable is the common person made suddenly rich. — The New York Herald.

BIKÉLAS. Tales from the Ægean. By Demetrios Bikélas. Translated by Leonard Eckstein Opdycke. With an Introduction by Henry Alonzo Huntington. 16mo, 258 pages, $1.00.

The stories are delightfully told; humor and pathos in turn call forth our admiration, and we owe our thanks to the publishers for having introduced this new author to the English reading public. — The Boston Times.

BLADES. The Pentateuch of Printing. By William Blades, author of "The Life and Typography of William Caxton," "The Enemies of Books," etc. Fully illustrated. Crown 4to, cloth, $2.50 net; half Roxburgh, gilt top, $4.00 net.

The work before us is highly interesting, not only to the printing world, but to all who watch the progress of civilization. Here we begin with an Assyrian tablet, and wind up with the latest improvement used by a daily newspaper. The charm of the volume is greatly enhanced by the excellent illustrations. — The Daily Telegraph, London.

BLAKELY. Fairy Starlight and the Dolls. By Elizabeth S. Blakely. (In press.)

A delightful story of the impossible happenings of two little girls and their dolls, in the fascinating realm of fairyland. The events are supposed to take place after the little girls have gone to sleep. The unusual situation where the children associate on terms of intimacy with their toys, who are endowed with life, and their efforts to conceal from the dolls who they are, affords much fun, and will greatly amuse the little ones.

BOISSIER. Madame de Sévigné. A Biography. By Gaston Boissier. See The Great French Writers, page 12.

BROWNE. Golden Poems. By British and American Authors. Edited by Francis F. Browne. Crown 8vo, 464 pages, full gilt, in box, $1.50.

I have taken pains to examine with some care your "Golden Poems." I am charmed to see how well you have proved that there was room for still another volume of poetical selections. I shall keep your book hereafter within reach; for it is pleasant to see, easy to hold, and refreshing to read. — Prof. Moses Coit Tyler, in letter to Editor.

BOUVET. Pierrette. By Marguerite Bouvet. Illustrated by Will Phillip Hooper. (In press.)

Miss Bouvet has a happy knack of creating children who, besides being good, are childlike, natural, and winsome. Pierrette is just such a child; and her mother, a charming little French widow, poor and industrious, makes conquests of all the women as well as the men who make her acquaintance. The story has enough of romance to make it delightful to the little ones, although it has none of the impossibilities of the fairy tale; and mothers will be glad to put it into the hands of their children, because it is both sweet and wholesome. It gives vivid pictures of life in the lively French capital.

BOUVET. A Child of Tuscany. By Marguerite Bouvet. Illustrated by Will Phillip Hooper. Small 4to, 207 pages, $1.50.

One of the prettiest stories of the year is "A Child of Tuscany," by Miss Marguerite Bouvet. It tells of a little Italian boy, stolen in babyhood by a woman of the people, who brought him up and loved him. It begins when he is six years old, and tries to sell flowers in the city. Miss Bouvet weaves a graceful tale about his adventures and his strange restoration to his own family, — one that keeps the interest throughout. The book is well printed and bound. — The Dial.

BOUVET. My Lady: A Story of Long Ago. By Marguerite Bouvet. Illustrated by Helen Maitland Armstrong. 16mo, 284 pages, $1.25.

It is, indeed, a little idyl of rare charm and delicacy. — The Evening Bulletin, Philadelphia.

The author of "Sweet William" has but to write, and she is read. There is no more universally beloved volume in the children's library, and none with more reason. "My Lady," a tender love story, is as charming as anything she has ever written. . . . It is exquisite. — The Chicago Herald.

BOUVET. Sweet William. By Marguerite Bouvet. Illustrated by Helen and Margaret Armstrong. Eleventh thousand. Small 4to, $1.50.

It is told with a grace of style that has not been surpassed in any of the juvenile fiction of the year. "Sweet William" is a charming little figure. The author has given her story a marked individuality that must ensure its wide popularity. — The Boston Advertiser.

BOUVET. Little Marjorie's Love Story. By Marguerite Bouvet. Illustrated by Helen Maitland Armstrong. Sixth thousand. Small 4to, 124 pages, $1.00.

The story is charmingly told. . . . The opening description of Little Marjorie gives evidence of the writer's style, — the crisp, telling manner which fixes the person or thing described as no other way can. It is enough to read just those few words to see the strong character whose love gives title to the story, and the grace of words with which the author is certainly gifted. — The Boston Times.

BOUVET. Prince Tip Top. A Fairy Tale. By Marguerite Bouvet. With numerous illustrations by Helen M. Armstrong. Fifth thousand. Small 4to, $1.00.

It is a charming little fairy story. . . . Little folk will enjoy the tale hugely, and it will do them no harm. The style is simple and engaging, and the illustrations are all conceived in the spirit of the text, and daintily executed. — The Commercial Advertiser, New York.

BRETON. A Bower of Delights; Being interwoven Verse and Prose from the Works of Nicholas Breton. See The Elizabethan Library, page 10.

BROOKE. The Friend of Sir Philip Sidney. See The Elizabethan Library, page 10.

BURDETT-COUTTS. Baroness Burdett-Coutts. A Sketch of Her Public Life and Work, Prepared for the Lady Managers of the World's Columbian Exposition by Command of Her Royal Highness, Princess Mary Adelaide, Duchess of Teck. With portrait. 75 cents.

Well as the name of the Baroness Burdett-Coutts is known in this country, we venture to say that there are few on this side the ocean to whom the facts in this little book are familiar. — Baltimore Telegram.

BURT. A History of Modern Philosophy (From the Renaissance to the Present). By B. C. Burt, Ph.D. 2 vols., crown 8vo, 689 pp., $3.00.

Admirable in form for the order, clearness, and compactness of presentation. For the rapid reader who cannot study philosophy at first hand, there is no book in the English language which would put him so quickly at the right point of view in order to see the meaning of systems and their relation to one another. — The Christian Register, Boston.

BYRON. Childe Harold's Pilgrimage: A Romaunt. By Lord Byron. See Laurel-Crowned Verse, page 21.

CARLYLE. On Heroes and Hero-Worship and the Heroic in History. By Thomas Carlyle. Finely printed and bound. 16mo, 286 pages, gilt top, $1.00; half calf or half morocco, $2.50.

This marvellous piece of analysis, of satire, of portraiture and eloquence, is so vitally characteristic, so intensely Carlylean, that this one work would alone enable a reader to form a very just idea of its author's literary quality and of his intellectual standpoint. It is here offered in a single elegant and inexpensive volume.

CARLYLE. Sartor Resartus: The Life and Opinions of Herr Teufelsdröckh. By Thomas Carlyle. Finely printed and bound. 16mo, gilt top, $1.00; half calf or half morocco, $2.50.

This volume is issued in the same attractive style — good paper, clear type, handy size, and tasteful binding — in which "Heroes and Hero-Worship" is published, and is uniform with it.

John Vance Cheney finds this title for his volume of essays or thoughts on poetry and the poets in Coleridge's lines: —

"With music long and loud
I would build that dome in the air,
That sunny dome."

He has written some very enjoyable essays, which lovers of literature will appreciate. Mr. Cheney is the librarian of the Newberry Library, Chicago, and is also a poet, and what he writes is worthy attention. The book consists of reviews of the works of Emerson, Lowell, Whittier, Longfellow, Bryant, Whitman, Blake, Cowper, and Wordsworth. He quotes copiously from their works, and his opinions are appreciative and at the same time critical. — The Boston Times.

CRAMER. The Method of Darwin. A Study in Scientific Method. By Frank Cramer. 12mo, 232 pages. (In press.)

Not to teach Darwinism, but to commend to all thinkers, and especially to educators, Darwin's method in the pursuit of knowledge and in the verification of his theories, is the object of this unusual and excellent work. Finding that the study of formal logic, as commonly pursued in the universities, is not well fitted to prepare a man for his life-work, the author turns to the works of Darwin, and finds in them the clearest model in the biological world for the study of applied logic.

ELIZABETHAN LIBRARY (The).

24mo, gilt top, per volume, $1.00. Twenty-five copies only printed on large paper, half Roxburgh, gilt top, per volume, $5.00.

A series of handy and tastefully printed little volumes, designed to bring the writings of some of the noble but little known authors of the sixteenth century before readers of the present day. The volumes are all printed in old-face type, on antique paper, in the 24mo size so characteristic of the sixteenth century, and are appropriately bound in the style of the Tudor period.

Here indeed is "a box where sweets compacted lie," a real pocket-companion, a vinaigrette for the soul. — The Daily Chronicle, London.

Choice Passages from the Writings of Sir Walter Raleigh: Being a small Sheaf of Gleanings from a Golden Harvest. By Alexander B. Grosart. With portrait.

This volume is an endeavor to bring together representative quotations from Raleigh, whereby to illustrate his distinction of style, the stately march of his sentences, and the lights and shadows of his many-sided and splendid career.

A Bower of Delights: Being Interwoven Verse and Prose from the Works of Nicholas Breton. The Weaver: Alexander B. Grosart. With an Introduction on his Life and the Characteristics of his Writings.

Breton has many a thought well expressed in melodious metre, and many a pretty image and delicate verse to make him amply worth the reading; and his prose is delightful in its freshness and pointed neatness. — St. James's Gazette, London.

Mr. Grosart has made a very pretty collection from Breton's books. Both the verse and the prose reveal a quick mind, one that can rise to considerable heights, but is more at home among the humanities of the earth, where it can prattle of wit and wisdom, and even effuse them both in shapely, if rather shallow, forms that are too apt to slide into mere conceits. We can heartily commend the book as a genuine literary curiosity. — Glasgow Herald.

"Thoughts that Breathe and Words that Burn," from the Writings of Francis Bacon. Selected by Alexander B. Grosart.

The selections are what Bacon hoped his Essays might be, — "grains of salt that will rather give an appetite than offend with satiety."

Green Pastures. Being Choice Extracts from the Works of Robert Greene, A.M., of both Universities, 1560(?)–1592. Made by Alexander B. Grosart.

Although the writings of Robert Greene may not be so well known as some of the authors who have appeared in the Elizabethan Library, his genius places him high among the writers of his time. Among the extracts will be found some exquisite word-pictures of old English scenes, gems from his plays, much quaint humor, and many pithy proverbs and choice sayings that may have originated some of the proverbs we are using to-day.

"The Poet of Poets." The Love-Verse from the Minor Poems of Edmund Spenser. Alexander B. Grosart, Editor. With portrait.

The quantity of this pre-eminent singer's poetry is so vast that selection was inevitable. The editor believes that he has struck an acceptable medium in choosing Spenser's love-verse to represent him. As a collection of Spenser's choicest verse this little volume will be welcomed as a pocket-companion for a summer day, or a passing recreation by the winter fireside.

"Brave Translunary Things." From the Works in Prose and Verse of Ben Jonson. Selected by Alexander B. Grosart.

Ben Jonson was not only among the foremost of his age for genius and intellectual and scholarly resource and fineness of poetic art, but his voluminous writings lend themselves exceptionally well to selections such as this. For massiveness of intellect, for occasional splendor of imagination, for loveliness of fancy, for sudden charm of melody, for breadth of reading, for conscientiousness of workmanship, "rare Ben" stands second to no contemporary, save one.

The Friend of Sir Philip Sidney. Being Selections from the Works of Fulke Greville, Lord Brooke. Edited, with an Introduction, by Alexander B. Grosart.

The high esteem in which Lord Brooke's writings have been held by the capable back to his own time, may be summed up in the words of Mr. George Saintsbury: "Perhaps it is not easy to find in all that generation of high-thinking and brilliantly-writing men any one who combines vivid expression with weighty thought more notably than Brooke does."

ELIZABETHAN SONNET CYCLES. Edited by Martha Foote Crow. PHILLIS by Thomas Lodge and LICIA by Giles Fletcher. In one volume, 12mo, gilt top, 158 pages, $1.50 net.

"Phillis" and "Licia" are the first two of nine selected cycles to be published simultaneously in four volumes, in London and Chicago. As the series is intended expressly for professed lovers and students of Elizabethan poetry who may be trusted to find out the beauties of the verse for themselves, it is not proposed to weight the reprints with lengthy critical introductions, but each cycle will be preceded by a note of from four to eight pages giving necessary information written by Mrs. Crow.

ENGLISH EPITHALAMIES. Edited by R. H. Case, 12mo, deckle edges, 198 pages, $1.75 net. (In press.)

. . . The term Epithalamium, originally used to denote the song at the bridal chamber as distinguished from those sung during the wedding procession or at the feast, has long been attached to every kind of nuptial poem, provided it be supposed to precede or even immediately succeed the nuptial night, and concludes with a few good wishes more or less allusive to the occasion. The present collection is meant to include nearly all English poems so styled by their authors, or that may plausibly be classed as such — whether brief songs or longer poems, whether original or translated — to the close of the seventeenth century, with a few admissions from the early years of the eighteenth. — From the Introduction to the book.

FILON. Garrick's Pupil. By Augustin Filon. Translated by J. V. Prichard. Illustrated. 12mo, 217 pages, $1.00.

People who are weary of introversion and analysis, and who would like to stop taking the lids off human souls in order to examine their works, will welcome a novelette so old-schooled as "Garrick's Pupil." It has all the old-fashioned flavor of incident and intrigue and plot which we so generally miss nowadays, and it is pleasant to be brought into contact with so many historic characters whose very names seem a part of life. — The Evening Bulletin, Philadelphia.

FISHER. Out of the Woods. By George P. Fisher, Jr. 12mo, 270 pages, paper, 50 cents; cloth, $1.00.

A fresh, bright, and breezy story of a summer camp in the wilds of Northern Michigan. A few touches of Chicago club life, half an hour with the Thomas orchestra, and a glimpse of Washington in summer, afford pleasant variations of action and scene. The people of the tale are wholesome, cheery men and maidens, whose acquaintance anywhere would be delightful. The little book is redolent of summer and the pines, and will be a favorite with every lover of light, sparkling fiction, whether in or "out of the woods."

Mr. George P. Fisher, Jr., has written a lively and entertaining story of camp life, with the title — appropriate, literally and symbolically — of "Out of the Woods." . . . It is not so much the plot and construction of the narrative that are interesting, as the fresh piney atmosphere and gay incidents of the out-of-door life, of which the author writes with such evident zest. — Chicago Journal.

FLETCHER. When Charles the First was King. A Romance of Osgoldcross, 1632–1649. By J. S. Fletcher. 12mo, 418 pages, $1.50.

The story is capitally told. The descriptions are alert and vivid. There are a number of taking battle pieces, as, for instance, that of Marston Moor. Taken all in all, "When Charles the First was King," is good, bluff, honest fiction, and you will read it to the last page. — New York Commercial Advertiser.

FLETCHER. Menticulture; or, The A, B, C of True Living. By Horace Fletcher. 12mo, 145 pages, $1.00.

You nervous people who want to carry the whole world on your shoulders, you restless folk who are constantly quarrelling with fate and fortune, you wretched misanthropes who see the cloud but never the silver lining, read "Menticulture," and ponder its many truths. Assuredly you will be greatly interested, and the chances are that you will look yourself over more carefully and reach the conviction that you have wasted a good deal of time and energy in useless worry. — New York Herald.

Victor Cousin. By Jules Simon, of the French Academy. Translated by Professors M. B. Anderson and E. P. Anderson.

Jules Simon has accomplished his work as biographer with fidelity and success, and the little volume that comes from his hand will probably be the standard memoir of the eminent French philosopher. — The Home Journal, New York.

Turgot. By Léon Say, of the French Academy. Translated by Prof. M. B. Anderson.

This is one of the best volumes in a notable series. A skilful biographer could not ask for a better subject; and in this instance the subject is handled with extraordinary grace of sympathy and touch. — The Press, Philadelphia.

Thiers. By Paul de Rémusat, Senator. Translated by Prof. M. B. Anderson.

This sketch of his life and personality is brilliant; and the little bourgeois, the representative of all that is best and most solid in France, stands before the reader clearly, succinctly, as if cut in marble. — Book-Chat, New York.

Madame de Staël. By Albert Sorel, of the Institute. Translated by Fanny Hale Gardiner.

It is an appreciative, temperate, discriminating, and highly interesting account of the eminent subject, her career, and her writings. — The Congregationalist, Boston.

GRISWOLD. Home-Life of Great Authors. By Hattie Tyng Griswold. 12mo, $1.50; half calf or half morocco, gilt top, $3.50.

This is a very charming book. . . . Mrs. Griswold has a very happy faculty of weaving literary illustrations from the different authors into her descriptions of their domestic lives. She has made a book about the home life of great authors that will be sure to make the home life of many who are not authors somewhat more sweet and glad. — The Christian Register, Boston.

GUNSAULUS. Songs of Night and Day. By Frank W. Gunsaulus, D.D. Small 4to, 144 pages, deckle edges, $1.50.

Eloquence of a very musical sort, picturesque thought, decorated with phrasing which sometimes fairly shoots forth rays of rainbow colors, and a pure, high aspiration informing every line, are the chief features of these poems. Dr. Gunsaulus is a man of power. He is not a great poet, but he is a "delightful doer of rhymes and rhythms," that go to the good parts of the understanding and sweetly linger there. — New York Independent.

GUNSAULUS. Monk and Knight: An Historical Study in Fiction. By Frank W. Gunsaulus, D.D. 2 vols., crown 8vo, $2.00.

Let no one attempt to read "Monk and Knight" at a sitting. That way madness lies. Take time. Pick it up at leisure moments, keeping the thread in the memory. Treat it as the author apparently means it, — less as a novel than as a vehicle for a mind full of the times and the ideas of the times. . . . It is more stirring than any history. There is no novel dealing with the dawn of the Reformation which gives us a succession of such splendid pictures. — The Sun, Baltimore.

GUNSAULUS. Phidias, and Other Poems. By Frank W. Gunsaulus, D.D. Large 12mo, 89 pages, gilt top, white and gold, with silk slip cover, in box, $1.25; 16mo, cloth, 75 cents.

It is a work of genuine poetic power, happy in conception, and wrought out with skill and beauty. — THEODORE T. MUNGER.

A new poet enters the lists in the person of Frank W. Gunsaulus. His "Phidias" is a majestic poem, founded upon an incident of Athenian history about 430 B. C. It is followed by a group of sonnets, among which the "Statue of Gordon in Trafalgar Square" is pre-eminent for nobility of thought and the calm beauty of expression. — Philadelphia Public Ledger.

HALL. The Power of an Endless Life. By the Rev. Thomas C. Hall. 16mo, 190 pages, $1.00.

Having carefully read the book, our verdict is that it is able, timely, and eminently adapted to do good. The discussion of the various types of Christianity is very finely wrought out, and is suited to instructing and broadening those who read it. — Free Methodist, Chicago.

HARRIS. The Dignity of Man: Select Sermons by Samuel Smith Harris, D.D., LL.D., Late Bishop of Michigan. With a Memorial Address by Bishop Potter. Portrait. 12mo, 266 pages, $1.50.

For the two brief memorial papers alone the volume would be a very valuable treasure; but as followed by this noble series of sermons it is indeed a possession for all well-endowed libraries. — The Churchman, New York.

HEALY. Reminiscences of a Portrait Painter. By George P. A. Healy. With 21 half-tone illustrations after the original paintings by Mr. Healy. 12mo, gilt top, $1.50; half calf or half morocco, $4.00.

A capital autobiography, and a real multum in parvo in point of anecdotal good things. Mr. Healy, as the world knows, was a master of the brush, and his book shows that he could wield the pen with a fluent neatness that might put many a professed writer to the blush. . . . The many portraits after originals by Mr. Healy form an element of decided interest. — The Dial.

HOLDEN. Audiences. A Few Suggestions to those who Look and Listen. By Florence P. Holden. 12mo, 222 pages. (In press.)

Every true artist, whether he be architect, sculptor, painter, musician, or poet, tries by means of his work to reveal some beauty that he has found in nature; but only a few persons have ears to hear his message. Most people need an interpreter; and this book comes to aid the reader to be his own interpreter. It cannot fail to prove a very reliable guide and friend to the multitudes of people who, though intelligent, lack the skill to discover for themselves the beauty that delights the connoisseur in a statue, a picture, or a poem. The author takes a comprehensive grasp of the whole subject, recognizing the inter-dependence of all the fine arts and their essential unity.

HOLMES AND STEVENSON. Pictures from Nature and Life. Poems, by Kate Raworth Holmes. Illustrated by Helen E. Stevenson. Small quarto, $2.00.

One of the finest books of poetry that have appeared during the holiday season is "Pictures from Nature and Life." The verses are well written, and are filled with bright thoughts and fancies, while no less admiration will be bestowed on the artistic work. Each poem is done in a different style of fancy lettering, with here and there designs of flowers and leaves. These are interspersed with reproductions of photographs of buildings, landscapes, persons, — the nature and life referred to in the lines. — The School Journal, New York.

HUDSON. The Law of Psychic Phenomena. A Working Hypothesis for the Systematic Study of Hypnotism, Spiritism, Mental Therapeutics, etc. By Thomson Jay Hudson, LL.D. Tenth Edition. 12mo, 409 pages, $1.50.

There cannot be too many books, so honest, so faithful to a point of view, so elevated and just in tone, so strong and able and comprehensive in reasoning, as this one is. It is the most far-sighted and complete work yet issued on the subject. — Public Opinion, Washington.

Throughout Mr. Hudson is discreet, candid, and reverent. His pages impress the fact that there is a wide realm of truth bearing upon his subject in which but the most incipient discoveries have been made as yet, and into which earnest thinkers may well endeavor to penetrate further. — Congregationalist, Boston.

HUDSON. A Scientific Demonstration of the Future Life. By Thomson Jay Hudson, LL.D. 12mo, $1.50.

One of the most interesting works of the season is "A Scientific Demonstration of the Future Life," by Thomson Jay Hudson, whose previous book, "The Law of Psychic Phenomena," caused such a stir, and was so eagerly read. . . . The entire subject is treated in a firmly scientific manner; nothing of theory or vague arguing is admitted; and there is no doubt that the book will be as widely read and discussed as was its predecessor. — Chicago Daily News.

HUGO. William Shakespeare. Translated from the French of Victor Hugo, by Prof. Melville B. Anderson, M.A. 8vo, 424 pages, gilt top, $2.00; half calf or half morocco, gilt top, $4.00.

This volume is much more than a study of Shakespeare. All history, all theology, and all philosophy are grasped and handled with Titanic force, the Bard of Avon furnishing the text, or as we should say, the pretext, for magnificent speculation. Why has this great work of Hugo's never before been anglicized? — The Evening Bulletin, Philadelphia.

JÆGER. Henrik Ibsen, 1828–1888: A Critical Biography. By Henrik Jæger. Translated from the Norwegian by William Morton Payne. Illustrated. Crown 8vo, 275 pages, gilt top, $1.50.

It is the only full biography of the author which we have in English, and makes any other unnecessary. It conveys every bit of needed information in acceptable form. — Public Opinion, Washington.

JONES. Beatrice of Bayou Têche. By Alice Ilgenfritz Jones. 12mo, 386 pages, $1.25.

The author writes with an attractive, graceful style and with a keenness of observation which holds the reader's attention. This love story is vigorously told, the heroine is a girl with a strong sense of her moral responsibility, and the ethical tone of the story is very high. — Boston Journal.

A capital story, full of vigor and subtle knowledge of human nature, and it is as vivid and picturesque as the Bayou. — OCTAVE THANET.

JONSON. Brave Translunary Things. From the Works in Prose and Verse of Ben Jonson. See The Elizabethan Library, page 10.

JORDAN. Science Sketches. By David Starr Jordan. New and Enlarged Edition. 12mo, 287 pages, $1.50.

The marked success of the first edition of this work may seem to render any words of introduction to the present one quite unnecessary. To those who have read and enjoyed the original work this will prove almost a new book, and to all new readers it will prove a great treat. The articles have been revised: some of them have been omitted, as not distinctly scientific, or not sufficiently popular in style to interest the general reader; and others have been inserted which will be found both scientific and popular. The best and most interesting articles in the first edition have been retained. Scientists and non-scientists may still enjoy the quiet humor of "The Story of a Salmon" and "The Story of a Stone," as well as the narrative charm of "An Ascent of the Matterhorn." Those who enjoyed "The Salmon Family" will be pleased on finding among other new matter, "How the Trout came to California;" and all will find that the value of the book has been enhanced.

JORDAN. A Manual of the Vertebrate Animals of the Northern United States, including the District north and east of the Ozark Mountains, south of the Laurentian Hills, north of the southern boundary of Virginia, and east of the Missouri River, inclusive of Marine Species. By David Starr Jordan, President of the Leland Stanford, Jr., University. Large 12mo, 375 pages, $2.50. Seventh edition. The trade discount on this book is limited.

We are satisfied that it has taken a permanent place in the educational literature of zoölogy in America, as the standard text-book of vertebrates. — DR. ELLIOTT COUES, in The Dial.

It includes a great body of compact descriptions of vertebrates and classifies them admirably in accordance with a system hitherto more known to botanists than to zöologists. We know of no similar work which contains so much information on the subject, abreast of the times, systematically and conveniently arranged, and produced at a small price. The book meets a general want. — New York Independent.

JULIAN. The Life of Joshua R. Giddings. By George W. Julian. With an appendix, containing the Essays of Pacificus (Giddings), two portraits, and a complete index. 8vo, 473 pages, gilt top, $2.50.

The book is one for all young Americans to read, for it will teach them what a boy, no matter how poor, who is determined to do right, can accomplish in a country like ours. — The Evening Telegram, New York.

JULIAN. Political Recollections, from 1840 to 1872. By the Hon. George W. Julian. 12mo, 384 pages, $1.50.

Like Wraxall's "Historical Memoirs," this book infuses dry details with a personal interest, a biographical charm, which makes it by far the most attractive account of the anti-slavery reform that we have yet seen. — The Boston Transcript.

KEBLE-LIDDON. The Christian Year. By the Rev. John Keble. The St. Paul's Edition. With the Collects and a Series of Meditations and Exhortations selected from the works of the Rev. H. P. Liddon, D.D., D.C.L. Large 12mo, 453 pages, $1.50.

This is the best edition yet issued in this country, and the conjunction of Keble and Liddon must commend itself to every churchly reader as exceptionally felicitous. The Churchman, New York.

KEYSER. In Bird Land. By Leander S. Keyser. 16mo, 269 pp., $1.25.

This is one of those extremely agreeable books about birds which we read in winter and remember in summer. Mr. Keyser is a keen observer and a sympathetic reporter, and his book will be as fresh as cut flowers in the library. — The Independent, New York.

Mr. Keyser's poetic interpretation, as well as scientific insight, of bird-life, is not only highly attractive, but keen and original. . . . These descriptions are full of thought and tenderness, and are not smothered in artistic phraseology. . . . It is very evident that the author is a man of unusual observant powers, and possesses a true feeling of sympathy for all feathered creatures. The book is a poet's as well as a naturalist's. — The Journal of Education, Boston.

KIRKLAND. A Short History of Italy. By Elizabeth S. Kirkland. 12mo, $1.25. (In press.)

Miss Kirkland's histories, written, as the "Nation" says, "in the way in which a history for young people ought to be written," are already very favorably known to a wide circle of readers who are doubtless ready to welcome this new and valuable work. Although a history of Italy — divided as the country has been into many separate governments all jealous of one another, and all possessed of the idea that the prosperity of one implies a disadvantage to its neighbors — is a complex and difficult task, the author has taken such a comprehensive view of her subject that she has been able to depict faithfully the misery of the unhappy country in those days when the absence of united patriotism left it an easy prey to many a foreign potentate; and in the latter portion of the book she presents her readers with a comparatively bright and hopeful picture of Italy united. The style, which is fluent and easy, adapts the book for the old and the young alike.

KIRKLAND. A Short History of English Literature for Young People. By Elizabeth S. Kirkland. With eleven portraits. 12mo, 398 pages, $1.50.

The story of English literature has rarely been more delightfully told than in these pages. Miss Kirkland goes boldly back to the dawn when English was first written, and not only tells about Caedmon, and Alfred, Chaucer and their contemporaries and followers, but gives a few short examples of their language, such as can most easily be interpreted. From this time down to Tennyson, Miss Kirkland has picked out the important writers and schools, and treats them in a way that should interest every young student, not only in the men, but in their writings even more. — The Journal of Education, Boston.

KIRKLAND. A Short History of England for Young People. By Elizabeth S. Kirkland. 12mo, 415 pages, $1.25.

"A Short History of England" is never trite, never dull; while its brief explanations of intricate systems — as, for example, the feudal system — and of great movements — such as the developments which led to the Restoration — are almost flawlessly clear. — The Evangelist, New York.

KIRKLAND. A Short History of France for Young People. By Elizabeth S. Kirkland. 12mo, 398 pages, $1.25.

Miss Kirkland has admirably succeeded in her "Short History of France," in making a book both instructive and entertaining. It is not a dry compendium of dates and facts, but a charmingly written history. Children can hardly fail to be interested in it; and if used as a text-book, it will be found by all competent teachers an important addition to the school library. — The Christian Union, New York.

KIRKLAND. Six Little Cooks; or, Aunt Jane's Cooking Class. By Elizabeth S. Kirkland. 12mo, 236 pages, 75 cents.

A lucky stroke of genius, because it is a good thing well done. It has the charm of a bright story of real life, and is a useful essay on cooking. — The Times, N. Y.

KIRKLAND. Dora's Housekeeping. By Elizabeth S. Kirkland. 12mo, 275 pages, 75 cents.

We cordially recommend these two books ("Dora's Housekeeping" and "Six Little Cooks") as containing almost the whole gospel of domestic economy. — The Nation, New York.

KIRKLAND. Speech and Manners for Home and School. By Elizabeth S. Kirkland. 12mo, 263 pages, 75 cents.

The author's theory of manners and of speech is good. Her modest manual might be read, re-read, and read again with great advantage in most American families. — The Independent, New York.

KIRKLAND. Six Little Cooks Series. Comprising: Six Little Cooks, Dora's Housekeeping, and Speech and Manners. In new styles of binding. The three volumes in neat box, $2.25.

KNOWLES. To England and Back: A Winter Vacation. By Canon Knowles. Portrait. 16mo, 231 pages, $1.00.

Canon Knowles writes as he talks, and he is an entertaining conversationalist. These letters lose none of their freshness in book form. They are full of keen observations, graphically recorded. — The Churchman, New York.

KRASINSKA. The Journal of Countess Françoise Krasinska in the Eighteenth Century. Translated by Kasimir Dziekonska. With portrait and other illustrations. 16mo, gilt top, deckle edges, $1.25.

Not for a long time have we seen so entertaining a book as this. It gives with charming naïveté a picturesque account of high life in Poland at the middle of the last century, — a life still pervaded by feudal traditions and customs. . . . The countess writes with all the vivacity of a girl who does not suspect that the glamour will pass; but withal she has very keen eyes that see just those details which posterity is most interested in and rarely finds in formal histories. — The Nation.

LAMON. Recollections of Abraham Lincoln, 1847–1865. By Ward Hill Lamon. Edited by Dorothy Lamon. With two portraits and fac-simile letters. 12mo, 286 pages, $1.50.

There have been unnumbered "lives," "histories," and "recollections" of Abraham Lincoln, but none of them can excel in interest, at least, the "Recollections of Lincoln," by Ward Hill Lamon, who was a personal and intimate friend of Lincoln's, — his law partner before the war and his confidant always. It is the most reliable of books that has come into our hands, aside from the fact that it gives us such a grand conception of the man. . . . It is only a lack of space that prevents our going more into particulars, and from quoting largely, but then we should be handicapped by such a wealth of material, we should be lost where to begin. — Boston Times.

LATIMER. Italy in the Nineteenth Century. By Elizabeth Wormeley Latimer. Illustrated. 8vo, $2.50. (In press.)

Commencing with a rapid glance at the early history of Italy after the fall of the Roman Empire; surveying lightly the contests of the Normans and the Germans for the sovereignty of the Two Sicilies; giving a brief description of the contention between the French and the Spaniards for the possession of that kingdom, and of its subsequent conquest by Austria; then sketching the rise of the house of Savoy, the author prepares her readers to take an appreciative view of the subject proper. The early part of the nineteenth century is not given very minutely; the events are painted broadly, and the writer hastens on, reserving the finer and more precise touches for those characters and events that are within the memory of some who are still above ground. Part of the author's plan being to include, for the sake of connection, a brief account of contemporary events in Austro-Hungary and Germany, a whole chapter is devoted to Louis Kossuth. Reverting to strictly Italian history, a chapter is devoted to each of the following, — Pio Nono, Victor Emmanuel, King Humbert, and Brigandage. And the history concludes with a chapter on a question that is at the present day full of almost painful interest to Italy, — her right to a share of the African Continent. To Mrs. Latimer's thousands of readers nothing more need be said of the style than that, as in the previous histories, it is pleasantly familiar, like that of a private letter or a parlor lecture.

LATIMER. Europe in Africa in the Nineteenth Century. By Elizabeth Wormeley Latimer. Handsomely illustrated with twenty-three full-page half-tone portraits. 8vo, 456 pages, $2.50.

Elizabeth Wormeley Latimer has made a valuable condensation of the history of European exploration and conquest. She calls her book a volume of "short yarns," but this modest characterization does not do justice to the skilful summing up of achievement in the Dark Continent. The classification is by the great names of this history. Livingston, Stanley, Gordon, Arabi Pasha, Mehemet Ali, Emin Pasha, Cecil Rhodes, and others are the figures around which are grouped the stories of exploration, conquest, and development. Each chapter is a story of thrilling interest; and though history is being made so fast in Africa that it soon leaves printed matter behind, the reader will find this an exceedingly useful work in understanding and keeping track of African affairs. — The Advance.

LATIMER. England in the Nineteenth Century. By Elizabeth Wormeley Latimer. Handsomely illustrated with twenty-five full-page half-tone portraits. 8vo, 452 pages, $2.50.

What a lot she knows! And how brightly she tells it all! We seem to be reading contemporaneous confidential letters to an intimate friend, written "not for publication" by any means, — the style is too good for that, — but simply because the writer is interested, and never imagines the reader to be otherwise. . . . Two things are certain, — that Mrs. Latimer enjoyed writing this book, and that every one who reads it will share her enjoyment. It is admirably printed, as it deserves, and is illustrated with many good portraits. — The Mail and Express, New York.

LATIMER. Russia and Turkey in the Nineteenth Century. By Elizabeth Wormeley Latimer. Handsomely illustrated with twenty-three full-page half-tone portraits. 8vo, 413 pages, $2.50.

The work is an excellent one, its references and quotations being judiciously selected from reliable sources, and it is an interesting and readable story in its every part. Poland, Servia, Roumania, and other collateral governments are presented in their proper sequence, forming in the story a well-balanced and harmonious whole. The volume is praiseworthy in that it presents to us in concise and interesting form much information of value to us, the political opposite of the Muscovite form of government. The work is admirably printed, and is embellished with many full-page portraits which add much to the value of the text. — The Boston Times.

LATIMER. France in the Nineteenth Century, 1830–1890. By Elizabeth Wormeley Latimer. Beautifully illustrated with twenty-two full-page, half-tone portraits. 8vo, 450 pages, $2.50.

The story of "France in the Nineteenth Century" as told by Mrs. Latimer is as absorbing as a work of fiction. Indeed, for rapid changes of front, for picturesque situations, remarkable vacillation of public opinion, no period of European history is more remarkable than this. . . . For telling situations and for startling effects she certainly does not lack. . . . She is always picturesque. In her analysis of character she displays a thorough mastery of her subject. . . . Mrs. Latimer has written an extremely interesting book, which will be read with eagerness. — The Daily Advertiser, Boston.

Amid the great flood of ephemeral literature that pours from the press, it is well to be recalled by such publications as the "Laurel-Crowned Letters" to books that have won an abiding place in the classical literature of the world. — The Independent, New York.

The diction, wit, and wealth of worldly wisdom displayed in these pages is indeed remarkable, and for variety of argument and illustration they can scarcely be surpassed. — The Public Ledger, Philadelphia.

The Best Letters of Madame de Sévigné. Edited, with an Introduction, by Edward Playfair Anderson.

The Best Letters of Lady Mary Wortley Montagu. Edited, with a Dedicatory Letter, by Octave Thanet.

The Best Letters of Horace Walpole. Edited, with an Introduction, by Anna Benneson McMahan.

Nowhere else can one get so readily, and almost with the pleasure of reading fiction, so good an interior view of English life at the most interesting period to American readers. — The Atlantic Monthly.

The Best Letters of Charles Lamb. Edited, with an Introduction, by Edward Gilpin Johnson.

The editor has aimed to include those letters which exhibit most fully Lamb's distinctive charm and quality; and the result is a volume of convenient size, containing ample material for the reader to spell out the power and lovableness of Lamb's nature, even if all other helps toward such understanding were wanting. — The Christian Register, Boston.

The Best Letters of Percy Bysshe Shelley. Edited, with an Introduction, by Shirley Carter Hughson.

There is a grace of expression, a beauty of sentiment, a touch of quick, deep feeling that mark them with the warmth and exquisite charm of the poet's soul, and make us wonder whether he excels in prose or poem. — Public Opinion, Washington.

The Best Letters of William Cowper. Edited, with an Introduction, by Anna Benneson McMahan.

Cowper might be called, with little exaggeration, the prince of letter-writers, so elegant and classic are his epistles. Apart from their literary charm, these letters give a more satisfactory picture of the man than any "Life" of him that has yet been written. — The Daily Advertiser, Boston.

The publishers have shown excellent discrimination in their choice of material for their projected library of choice fiction, and they have certainly given these initial volumes a form that bespeaks the warmest praise. — The Beacon, Boston.

Abdallah; or, The Four-Leaved Shamrock. By Edouard René Lefebvre-Laboulaye. Translated by Mary L. Booth.

The story is one of perennial charm for both young and old, and is delightful in its lofty morality, and in its grace of style, its wit, and its imaginative delicacy. — The Saturday Evening Gazette, Boston.

Rasselas, Prince of Abyssinia. By Samuel Johnson.

For a model of grave and majestic language, "Rasselas" will claim, perhaps, the first place in English composition. — The School Journal, New York.

Raphael; or, Pages of the Book of Life at Twenty. From the French of Alphonse de Lamartine.

A capital translation of one of Lamartine's fiery, impassioned, yet pure love stories. Already read by scores of thousands, it will have full as many readers in the future as it has had in the past. — The Republic, St. Louis.

The Vicar of Wakefield. By Oliver Goldsmith.

This curious romance is one of Moore's most interesting works. It has the characteristic brilliant power, finish, and style of the unrivalled song writer. — The Journal of Education, Boston.

Nobody ever read this charming tale without surrendering quietly and entirely to its charm. — The Congregationalist, Boston.

It is a gem of the purest ray, a lovely idyl, whose strength is drawn from what is best in human life. — The Philadelphia Inquirer.

Paul and Virginia. By Bernardin de Saint-Pierre. Translated from the French by Professor Melville B. Anderson.

A new translation, very faithful and conscientious, yet lively, and presented in good idiomatic English. The translator has been careful to catch the author's spirit and meaning, and the reader will find the charm of this classic prose idyl wonderfully preserved.

LAUREL-CROWNED VERSE.

Edited by FRANCIS F. BROWNE. 16mo, cloth, gilt top, per volume, $1.00; half calf or half morocco, per volume, $2.50. The seven volumes, in neat box, per set, $7.00; in half calf or half morocco, $17.50.

All the volumes of this series are from a specially prepared and corrected text, based upon a careful collation of all the more authentic editions.

The special merit of these editions, aside from the graceful form of the books, lies in the editor's reserve. Whenever the author has provided a preface or notes, this apparatus is given, and thus some interesting matter is revived; but the editor himself refrains from loading the books with his own writing.—The Atlantic Monthly.

The Lady of the Lake. By Sir Walter Scott.

"The Lady of the Lake" appeared in 1809. . . . It took the world by storm. The public was unanimous in its favor; the reviews vied with each other in celebrating this greatest poem of the age. — MRS. OLIPHANT, in The Literary History of England.

Childe Harold's Pilgrimage. A Romaunt. By Lord Byron.

"Childe Harold" derives its wonderful power over our sympathies from the admirable variety, splendor, and beauty of its descriptions of scenery, spots of eternal and historical interest, and the great triumphs of human art and genius. — THOMAS B. SHAW, in Outlines of English Literature.

Lalla Rookh. An Oriental Romance. By Thomas Moore.

Moore has shown, in the poetry selected for the "Irish Melodies," and more so in his celebrated "Lalla Rookh," how beautifully the feelings of a delicate passion can be conveyed in language of the most brilliant and powerful description. — Dibdin's Library Companion.

Idylls of the King. By Alfred, Lord Tennyson.

It is the epic of chivalry, the Christian ideal of chivalry which we have deduced from a barbaric source, — our conception of what knighthood should be, rather than what it really was; but so skilfully wrought of high imaginings, fairy spells, fantastic legends, and mediæval splendors, that the whole work, suffused with the Tennysonian glamour of golden mist, seems like a chronicle illuminated by saintly hands. EDMUND CLARENCE STEDMAN.

Paradise Lost. By John Milton.

The physical universe of Dante's great poem would go into a nutshell as compared with that to which the imagination must stretch itself out in "Paradise Lost." Vastness of scene and power of story together, little wonder that the poem should have so impressed the world. — DAVID MASSON.

The Iliad of Homer. Translated by Alexander Pope. 2 vols.

Pope's translation of the Iliad occupies a position in literature which no other has ever approached. It is the one poem of the kind that has obtained a reputation beyond the limits of the country in the language of which it is written, and the only one that has fascinated the imagination of the unlearned. — W. I. COMTHOPE.

LEFFINGWELL. Lyrics of the Living Church: Original Poems compiled from "The Living Church." Edited by C. W. Leffingwell. Illustrated. 12mo, 275 pages, $1.00.

The hymns and poems given in the volume are marked by religious fervor, fine feeling, and a high degree of poetic merit. — St. Andrew's Cross, New York.

LILJENCRANTZ. The Scrape that Jack Built. By Ottilie J. Liljencrantz. 12mo. 248 pages. Illustrated. (In press.)

This is a wholesome and fascinating story, recounting the jolly doings of a happy company of boys and girls. The ambition of the girls to assist a deserving family is heartily seconded by the boys, and the account of their efforts in this work will be found entertaining and stimulating to readers of their own age. Not entirely disassociated with their common task, are the hero's struggles between some distracting companions and his better self, in which, in the end, Jack comes out honorably from the scrape he built for himself.

The selections are made with rare taste and judgment. They show a wide range of reading, and a wonderful knack of selecting the few pregnant words which convey the thought of an essay or a speech. . . . It is a book which readers should peruse and writers should study. — The Philadelphia Inquirer.

This is a handsome book in print, and binding, and full gilt. A glance at the index of subjects will impress the reader of its variety as much as the excellence of the sentiments contained. As a book of reference the student will find it wonderfully suggestive and helpful. — Chicago Inter-Ocean.

LOTI. An Iceland Fisherman. From the French of Pierre Loti. See Laurel-Crowned Tales, page 20.

LUMMIS. The Spanish Pioneers. By Charles F. Lummis. With nine full-page half-tone illustrations. 12mo, 292 pages, $1.50.

From Mr. Lummis there is learned more of the true personality and environment of these men than is generally known. Numerous autographs are interspersed throughout the book, as well as pictures of Nature's wonderful formations, fortresses, and churches in the many Spanish colonies. The conquest of Peru is admirably described, giving the reader a keener insight than the average history furnishes. Altogether the book is an instructive, well-written history of comparatively unexplored fields. — The Boston Journal.

MAC KIE. With the Admiral of the Ocean Sea: A Narrative of the First Voyage to the Western World. Drawn mainly from the Diary of Christopher Columbus. By Charles Paul Mac Kie. Crown 8vo, $1.50.

This book is by far the best and most interesting account of the discovery of the Western world which has yet appeared. The author has not followed in the beaten track of his predecessors in this field of work, but has preferred to deal only with the accounts left by Columbus himself and those directly associated with him in his unique enterprise. . . . The book bids fair to rank as the standard popular account of the great Western voyage. — The Churchman, New York.

MAC KIE. The Last Voyages of the Admiral of the Ocean Sea. As related by Himself and his Companions. By Charles Paul Mac Kie. Crown 8vo, 518 pages, gilt top, $1.50.

This is altogether an interesting book and a valuable contribution to Columbian literature. . . . Mr. Mac Kie has devoted himself in this volume to the declining years of Columbus, and we are not overpraising his work when we say that it must be found in every well-selected library. The book which Mr. Mac Kie has written is one of the most welcome which has been sent to our table in a long while. — New York Herald.

It is a very entertaining book, in which the old-time Israelite is painted with a truthfulness that invariably commands and retains attention. The author's style is charming. Those who are in search of original and unhackneyed fiction will find it in this volume. — The Saturday Evening Gazette, Boston.

MASON AND LALOR. The Primer of Political Economy. In Sixteen Definitions and Forty Propositions. Eighth thousand. By A. B. Mason and J. J. Lalor. 12mo, 67 pages, 60 cents.

I sincerely hope that Primers of this sort are the beginning of an era in which the knowledge which is most valuable to humankind shall be brought within the leisure time of those who now never look at anything more than a partisan presentation of any subject. — President White, Cornell University.

MATSON. References for Literary Workers. With Introductions to Topics and Questions for Debate. By Henry Matson. Crown 8vo, 582 pages, $2.50.

A more complete reference book it would be hard to find. . . . With such a volume at hand, preparatory reading loses half its terrors. The comprehensiveness of the scope of such a work is vast and its value tremendous. — The Boston Times.

MATSON. Knowledge and Culture. 12mo, 170 pages, 75 cents.

The author is the librarian of a great university library, and, from necessity, knows a good book. His volume, "Knowledge and Culture," is among the best works extant for practical use for literary workers. Doctor Antonio. By Giovanni D. Ruffini. 1 volume.

"Doctor Antonio" was the popular work of its gifted author, who wrote it in exile, after sharing the vicissitudes of the political troubles of his day in Italy. "The true and touching interest of the story would carry a reader through a much heavier medium. . . . The outline of the story is simple; it derives its charm from the grace and delicacy with which the details are filled in, and the strong individuality impressed upon every point of character, scenery, or incident."

The Comedies of Carlo Goldoni. Edited, with Introduction, by Helen Zimmern. 1 volume.

"It is Goldoni's supreme merit, and one of his chief titles to fame and glory, that he released the Italian theatre from the bondage of the artificial and pantomime performances that had passed for plays, and that, together with Molière, he laid the foundations of the drama as it is understood in our days."

MILLER. From Avalon, and Other Poems. By Emily Huntington Miller. 16mo. (In press.)

Wearied with life's battle, and seeking "for healing and for rest," the poet goes away in imagination to Avalon, that green and tranquil river-island in the west of England where tradition says that King Arthur lies buried. From this quiet retreat she is supposed to send out this delicious booklet of short poems. It is a volume full to the brim with restfulness, without deadness. The piece that gives its own title to the volume is delightfully suggestive, slipping into the mind such thoughts as invite the weary soul to gladsome repose; and in the whole collection every true lover of Nature will find, formed into pleasing and graceful verses, some of those imaginings which he has himself conceived, but perhaps failed to utter to his own satisfaction.

MILLER. The Evolution of Love. By Emory Miller, D.D., LL.D. Crown 8vo, 346 pages, gilt top, $1.50.

This is a strong book, which handles in masterly fashion and untechnical language the great facts of reason, revelation, and religion. It is an undogmatic and suggestive expression of the theology of our age and of the ages. . . . It is a book in harmony with the deepest thinking of the prophets and apostles. — The Critic.

MILTON. Paradise Lost. See Laurel-Crowned Verse, page 21.

The tragedy (Valeria) itself is one of rare conception and grasp, full of surprises. . . . Nothing in the play is weak or imitative. . . . Her cantata is undeniably strong, varied, dignified, and in good taste. . . . This lady has certainly taken at one bound a high position among American poets. — The Evening Post, New York.

It describes with artistic delicacy the transmission of that wonderful thing called life in both the plant and animal existence. The difficult subject is treated with such intelligence and charm of manner that children may read it with interest, and parents need have no fear of its influence. — The Chicago Times.

Something of flower life, something of fish life, of frogs, and of birds, and a chapter on human life, form the subjects of this book, — all told in the graceful manner of a womanly woman, whose love for nature has given her a keener insight into Nature's secrets, and a greater ability to impart those secrets to others with the ease of face-to-face talks than is vouchsafed to many people. — The Boston Times.

MORLEY. Life and Love. By Margaret W. Morley. Illustrated. 12mo. 214 pages, $1.25.

Margaret Warner Morley has written in "Life and Love" a book which should be placed in the hands of every young man and woman. It is a fearless yet clean-minded study of the development of life and the relations thereof from the protoplasm to mankind. The work is logical, instructive, impressive. It should result in the innocence of knowledge, which is better than the innocence of ignorance. It is a pleasure to see a woman handling so delicate a topic so well. Miss Morley deserves thanks for doing it so impeccably. Even a prude can find nothing to carp at in the valuable little volume. — Boston Journal.

The metamorphosis and reproduction of insects, the part that insects play in the fertilization of flowers, and the provisions for the continuance of bird and animal life are described in a manner that admirably combines tact and prudence with truth. The story is simply, candidly, and impressively told. — Public Opinion, New York.

MUSA PISCATRIX. Sixty Poems on the Renowned Art of Angling. Selected and prefaced by John Buchan. With six full-page etchings. 12mo, deckle edges, 134 pages, $1.50 net. (In press.)

The editor claims for this work, not that it is a serious collection of all the fishing songs of merit in the English language, but only a small sheaf of some sixty shorter and choicer verses gleaned from a narrow field. Some of the poems are isolated stanzas, some have a touch of the humorous, others an admixture of the pathetic, — all, however, having "the fragrance and piquancy of poetry which busies itself with things not far removed from the tastes of human kind." The work is illustrated with six full-page etchings of characteristic angling scenes and places.

NEMEC. The Grandmother. A Story of Country Life in Bohemia. By Bozena Nemec. Translated from the Bohemian, with a Biographical Sketch of the author, by Frances Gregor, B. L. 12mo, 352 pages, $1.00.

A simple sketch of the daily life of a family of Bohemia, for whom the dear, pleasant grandmother is a fountain of cheer and good-will, and an ark of the quaint and pious traditions of the people. It is charming in its narrative, and full of local color and folk-lore. — The Literary World.

NESBIT: A Pomander of Verse. By E. Nesbit. With ornamental title-page and cover designed by Laurence Housman. 12mo, $1.25 net.

At the first opening of E. Nesbit's book of poems, the title and the division of the volume into sections, distinguished by such headlines as ambergris, lavender, rose, myrrh, bergamot, and so on, occur to one as perhaps a somewhat far-fetched poetic conceit; but when the book is laid aside, it is with the thought that, after all, it is not inappropriately named. It does not need the nose of a poet to detect and enjoy the delicate and varied aromas that arise from this delightful pot-pourri. Their charm is all-pervading; it is sweet and soothing, like the odor of flowers; or similar in its effects, we might suppose, to a stroll in the old Kentish garden of which the author sings. — The Edinburgh Scotsman.

NINDE. We Two Alone in Europe. By Mary L. Ninde. With Illustrations from Original Designs. 12mo, 348 pages, $1.50.

A very fresh and bright and readable little book it is. There are multitudes of books of European travel of far greater pretension and not half the worth and interest of this. . . . It is a thoroughly delightful book. — The Traveller, Boston.

In this work of Mr. Noll's we have an admirable example of what a history should be, — an example that is sure to have an appreciable effect upon future historians. Much of his material is entirely new, and was collected by him during an extended residence in Mexico. —The Transcript, Boston.

NOTES FOR BOYS (and their Fathers). On Morals, Mind, and Manners. By an Old Boy (W. T. S. Hewett). 12mo, 208 pages, 75 cents.

A most attractive little book, outwardly and inwardly. . . . It is hard to make general advice practical; but this little essay, with anecdote and illustration, is not in the least prosy or visionary, and is entertaining as well as suggestive. — The Critic, New York.

PARKER. Familiar Talks on Astronomy, with Chapters on Geography and Navigation. By William H. Parker. 12mo, $1.00.

"Familiar Talks on Astronomy" are so easy and pleasant that they may well attract readers who would be repelled by a volume of greater pretensions and more formal style. Even the little mathematical explanations on which he now and then enters become quite readable under his facile pen. — The Nation, New York.

PEARCE. Tales of the Masque. 16mo, 198 pages, $1.00.

These "Tales of the Masque," by J. H. Pearce, are sketches rather subtle in spite of their serene simplicity. There is a kind of delicate poetry running through them; they are condensed, vivid, suggestive. Marked by a certain calmness, they yet startle one now and then with a deep tragic note. A keen knowledge of the influences uniting nature and humanity is in such sketches as "Joanna," "The Calling of the Sea," "The Valley of Vanished Sunsets," "The Sorcery of the Forest." Such witchery is hard to convey in words, and these will not easily detach themselves from the memory. — The Critic, New York.

PEEL. Polar Gleams. An Account of a Voyage on the Yacht "Blencathra." By Helen Peel. Illustrated. 8vo, 211 pages, $1.50.

A number of considerations lent romance and picturesqueness to this voyage. The destination was remote, the route novel, the object practical, the company pleasant, the experience untried, and the result successful. Miss Peel has the distinction of being the first European woman to make this trip, and her account of it is entertaining and instructive reading. — The Literary World, Boston.

PERKINS. Eleusis, and Lesser Poems. By William Rufus Perkins. 16mo, 219 pages, $1.00.

As a whole the poem leaves the conviction that it was written, not because Mr. Perkins wished to write a poem, but because these thoughts were in his soul, and they "would out," and the artistic instinct clothed them in rare language and form. The Interior, Chicago.

PHELPS AND NORTH. The Bailiff of Tewkesbury. By C. E. D. Phelps and Leigh North. Illustrated. 12mo, 199 pages, $1.00.

The authors are to be congratulated upon the achievement of a decided success. The time of the story is three hundred years ago, the scene is laid in Shakespeare's country at Tewkesbury and Stratford, and Shakespeare himself, as a lad of twenty or so, is one of the characters in the opening portion of the narrative. The tale has plenty of incident, the dialect is well done; and altogether it is, in its way, a most ingenious and entertaining literary performance. The book is effectively illustrated. The Beacon, Boston.

POETRY OF THE GATHERED YEARS. Compiled by M. H. 16mo, 169 pages, white vellum cloth, $1.00.

It is a lovely, charming, dear, delightful book. . . . The poems selected are, almost without exception, admirable and worthy of their place. . . . It should be said that this book has been made as beautiful as its contents deserve; and we are sure that if those who are seeking a lovely gift for an aged friend, or one beginning to grow old, would look at this, they would be satisfied that nothing better could be found. — The Christian Register, Boston.

POLLARD. Odes from the Greek Dramatists. Translated into Lyric Metres by English Poets and Scholars. Edited by Alfred W. Pollard. 16mo, 208 pages, vellum, gilt top, $1.75 net.

This is the third volume in the choice and beautiful series of which Wharton's "Sappho" and Pollard's edition of Sir Philip Sidney's "Astrophel and Stella" were the first two. The editing is of the same careful and scholarly character as that of the former volumes. In every case the original Greek text is given, together with the best translation which existed or could be procured.

PRENTICE. The Eye in its Relation to Health. By Chalmer Prentice, M.D. 12mo, 214 pages, $1.50.

The author ably treats this interesting subject. In fact, much of this work is out of the ordinary, and is richly suggestive along lines of thought seldom touched by the average writer. — The Massachusetts Medical Journal.

PUSHKIN. Marie: A Story of Russian Love. See Tales from Foreign Lands, page 35.

PUTNAM. The Children's Life of Abraham Lincoln. By M. Louise Putnam. Illustrated by Helen M. Armstrong. 12mo, $1.25.

Among the more pretentious biographies of Lincoln, this simple story stands forth by the strength of its merits as the best yet written for children and young people. It bears marks of much care, and is written in clear, scholarly English. . . . It was a good work to write this book; it will be one to which children will turn again and again. — The Evening Transcript, Boston.

RABB. National Epics. By Kate Milner Rabb. 12mo. (In press.)

Such a book as this will render valuable service to that large class of readers who have literary tastes, but who have not sufficient leisure from business cares for the indulgence of those tastes to the full. Many a busy man would be glad to satisfy his craving for a knowledge of epic poetry by the perusal of a book that, without requiring him to read the great epics from end to end, would furnish him with a succinct account of each of them, and perhaps stimulate and direct him in seeking a more particular acquaintance with some one or more of the great poems. To provide her readers with such help is Mrs. Rabb's object. Her treatment of each epic consists of (1) A descriptive sketch of the poem; (2) An outline of the historical narrative embraced in it; (3) Selections, each of which narrates a complete incident; (4) A short bibliography of each poem; (5) A list of standard English translations of the foreign epics. The last two of these items make the book valuable as a work of reference. The author has performed her heavy task with such diligence and literary ability as will certainly win much credit to herself, and be the means of edifying and entertaining many a grateful reader.

RALEIGH. Choice Passages from the Writings and Letters of Sir Walter Raleigh. See Elizabethan Library, page 10.

REDDALL. Fact, Fancy, and Fable. A new Handbook for Ready Reference on Subjects commonly Omitted from Cyclopædias. Compiled by Henry Frederic Reddall. 8vo, 536 pages, $2.50.

The volume, a large one, is a collection of out-of-the-way odds and ends, relating to subjects that are constantly spoken of, but of which very many people do not understand the meaning. In gathering these floating items and giving them a permanent form, Mr. Reddall has performed a genuine service, and his book is one that can be read with profit and amusement at any odd moment, and is of permanent value as a handbook of reference.— The Saturday Evening Gazette, Boston.

The "Discourses" have taken their place firmly in the literature of the language, and the central moral of their teaching "aim at the highest" is as potent to-day as when it was urged in the most elegantly eloquent discourses that have ever been delivered before the students of the Royal Academy. — The Saturday Evening Gazette, Boston.

RHEINHARDT. Whist Scores and Card-Table Talk. With a Bibliography of Whist. By Rudolf H. Rheinhardt. Illustrated. 12mo, 310 pages, gilt top, $1.00.

ROBERTS. Down the O-hi-o. By Charles Humphrey Roberts. 12mo, 313 pages, $1.00.

Though a story in form, its real value is in a series of scenes, often felicitous and sometimes extremely spirited, of rural life, chiefly among Quakers, on the north bank of the Ohio in the period shortly before the war for the Union. — Atlantic Monthly.

ROBERTS. The Book-Hunter in London: Historical and Personal Studies of Book Collectors and Book Collecting. By William Roberts, author of "The Earlier History of English Bookselling," etc. Copiously illustrated. Large 8vo, $5.00 net.

Indeed, one does not need to be a bibliomaniac to appreciate much of the work, anecdotes, historical incidents, and odd happenings relating to book-making, bookselling, and book-hunting. The collection of literary curiosities is large and entertaining in a high degree. What might by another writer have been made a mere dry-as-dust compilation is by Mr. Roberts infused with spirit and life. In form the book is really delightfully choice. The process cut of an ideal book-hunter on the cover is a particularly delicate and well-executed piece of illustrative work. Reproductions of rare prints, portraits of famous bookish men, and charming bits of English architecture are scattered throughout. — The Outlook, New York.

SARGENT. Napoleon Bonaparte's First Campaign. With comments by Herbert H. Sargent, First Lieutenant Second Cavalry, United States Army. Crown 8vo, 231 pages, with maps, $1.50.

I have been reading Lieut. Sargent's book on Napoleon's first Italian campaign all the morning, and was much interested. I hope it may be studied closely by all our young officers, for it is easily understood and tells its own story. May I ask you kindly to thank Mr. Sargent for his kindness in sending me a copy. — Lord Wolseley, Commander-in-Chief of the British Army, in a letter to the publishers.

The work is so clearly done, and the sketch maps so well illustrate the successive stages of the campaign, that the general reader can follow the story with satisfaction, and understand wherein Bonaparte was really great. — The Nation, New York.

So carefully and accurately written is this volume, that the London Times pays our compatriot the compliment of begging him to continue his history through the other campaigns of Napoleon. — The Outlook, New York.

SEELEY. The Spanish Galleon. Being an Account of a Search for Sunken Treasure in the Caribbean Sea. By Charles Sumner Seeley. 12mo, 290 pages, $1.00.

SEYMOUR. Government & Co., Limited. An Examination of the Tendencies of Privilege in the United States. By Horatio W. Seymour. 16mo, 148 pages, 75 cents.

It is like the blast of a trumpet. An "examination of the tendencies of privilege in the United States," it is clear, forcible, and penetrating. Mr. Seymour does not compromise with his subject nor with his opponents; his blow is straight from the shoulder, and his courage is prodigious. It is just the kind of document we need in this country, — one which looks a political question squarely in the face, and judges it as a question of right, and not as a question of expediency. Mr. Seymour is a good fighter; and in more than a score of short, terse, vigorous chapters he attacks the strongholds of protection. There is no wavering, no juggling with words, no diplomatic circumlocution. It will be attacked as one-sided, but that very strenuousness is a thing to welcome; we have had far too much trimming of sails to the shifting wind. This book does not face both ways; it stands firmly for one doctrine, that the way out of the difficulties it describes "is straight out to the higher ground of honesty and to the purer air of truth." — The Critic, New York.

SHELLEY. The Best Letters of Percy Bysshe Shelley. See Laurel-Crowned Letters, page 20.

SHELDON. The Crucifixion of Phillip Strong. By Charles M. Sheldon. 12mo, 267 pages, $1.00.

It will secure a very wide reading, and it should make a deep impression upon every reader, and produce lasting fruit. — The Congregationalist, Boston.

SHEPPARD. Charles Auchester. By Elizabeth Sheppard. With an Introduction and Notes by George P. Upton, author of Upton's Handbooks on Music. Two portraits of Mendelssohn. 2 vols., gilt tops, $2.50.

We need hardly remind any one that the story was written as a memorial to Mendelssohn, the composer, and is a remarkable story merely as such, while it also is a classic among students and interpreters of music. This is a particularly neat and tasteful edition, and Mr. Upton, the editor, is an eminent musical expert. — The Congregationalist, Boston.

SHEPPARD. Counterparts. By Elizabeth Sheppard. With an Introduction and Notes by George P. Upton. With portraits. 2 vols., 12mo, gilt tops, $2.50.

The story, on its first appearance, nearly forty years ago, made a great sensation and achieved a remarkable popularity. Its merits are marked and brilliant, and the story, despite its age, and the great change that fiction has undergone since it was written, remains a work that can still be read with interest and pleasure. — The Saturday Evening Gazette, Boston.

SHEPPARD. Rumour. By Elizabeth Sheppard. With an Introduction and Notes by Harriet Prescott Spofford. With portraits. 2 vols., 12mo, gilt tops, $2.50.

Harriet Prescott Spofford prefaces and annotates this edition, and thereby offers to a friend a beautiful tribute of affection, and to a genius, exalted in comprehension and unique in expression, a tribute of appreciation and worthy interpretation. Miss Sheppard's theme is always music, — music seeking expression in creative power, as in Mendelssohn, the hero of "Charles Auchester," and in Beethoven, the hero of "Rumour;" and music as a power of deep and spiritual influence over persons peculiarly susceptible. . . . One of the greatest charms of Miss Sheppard's books is their spontaneity. — Journal of Education.

SPALDING. Things of the Mind. By the Rt. Rev. J. L. Spalding, Bishop of Peoria. 12mo, 237 pages, $1.00.

He stands first in the Roman Catholic hierarchy of America as the representative of literary culture. . . . Out of a disciplined and fertile mind he pours forth epigrammatic sentences and suggestions in a fashion which recalls Emerson. . . . He is always and everywhere American, and the last chapter is at once wisely critical and soundly laudatory of our country. — The Sunday-School Times.

SPALDING. Means and Ends of Education. By the Rt. Rev. J. L. Spalding, Bishop of Peoria. 12mo, 232 pages, $1.00.

Bishop Spalding comes nearer being an essayist in education than any other American. He has that rarest of educational gifts, — the ability to throw light brilliantly, and yet softly, making his paragraphs both bright and mellow, all without "preaching," without pedantry, and without being cranky. His chapters are upon "Truth and Love," "The Making of One's Self," "Woman and Education," "The Scope of Public School Education," "The Religious Elements in Education," and "The Higher Education." . . . When we agree with him, it is delightful, and when we differ, we respect his convictions, honor his courage, and enjoy his spirit. — Journal of Education, Boston.

SPALDING. Songs, chiefly from the German. Translated by Bishop Spalding. 16mo, gilt top, $1.25.

It is seldom that one finds translations of poetry so well done as these contained in this volume presented by Bishop Spalding. There is sympathy in his labor. He has gathered the flowers from the German garden of song and translated them, giving a literal rendering, but still preserving the melody, — an art which was thought to have been lost with Longfellow. — The Chicago Record.

SWING. Truths for To-Day. Second Series. By Prof. David Swing. 12mo, 294 pages, $1.00.

The preacher presents a broad and generous view of human duty, appealing to the highest instincts and the purest motives of a lofty manhood. — The New York Tribune.

SWISSHELM. Half a Century. By Jane Gray Swisshelm. $1.50.

The most amusing, provoking, inspiring production of many a long day, which, having once begun, you will not lay down until the last chapter and page are finished. And having finished it, you exclaim: "What a wonderful life! What a wonderful woman!" — The Christian Register, Boston.

TALES FROM FOREIGN LANDS.

16mo, gilt tops, per volume, $1.00. The six volumes in neat box, per set, $6.00; in half calf or half morocco, gilt tops, $13.50; in half calf or half morocco, gilt edges, $15.00.

Memories. A Story of German Love. Translated from the German of Max Müller by George P. Upton. Twenty-sixth thousand.

The touching story of "German Love," whose tender pathos lacks only the harmonies of verse to make it one of the most exquisite poems in the German language, is here reproduced in an English costume of chaste and delicate beauty. — The New York Tribune.

Graziella. A Story of Italian Love. Translated from the French of Alphonse De Lamartine, by James B. Runnion.

The purity, the sadness, and the gentleness of the tale leave an impression upon the mind of having listened to a strain of sweet music. The literary style is faultless in its grace. — The Christian-at-Work, New York.

Marie. A Story of Russian Love. From the Russian of Alexander Pushkin, by Marie H. De Zielinska.

The whole spirit and atmosphere of the story is fresh and bracing; and we promise the readers of the book a new treat. — The Independent, New York.

Madeleine. A Story of French Love (crowned by the French Academy). Translated from the French of Jules Sandeau by Francis Charlot.

Jules Sandeau's "Madeleine" is a love-story that approximates very closely to perfection. It is a theme of exceeding purity and beauty, treated by an artist whose style is as finished and delicate as it is firm, and whose French is a model of elegant simplicity. — The Philadelphia Times.

Marianela. A Story of Spanish Love. Translated from the Spanish of B. Perez Galdos by Helen W. Lester.

The story is attractive for its purity, sweetness, and pathos. It is worthy of its place in this rare collection of representative national classics. — The Evening Telegram, New York.

Cousin Phillis. A Story of English Love. By Mrs. Gaskell.

It is as pure and noble a love story as ever was written. It is a good one to put into the hands of young girls, for it refines and elevates their youthful ideals. — Public Opinion, Washington.

TAYLOR. Is Protection a Benefit? A Plea for the Negative. By Prof. Edward Taylor. 12mo, 274 pages, $1.00.

The book is certainly characterized by marked ability, by evidently careful study of the whole subject; and is written in a style so manly and bright that one will be sure to read it with pleasure. — The Standard, Chicago.

TAYLOR. With Edge Tools. By Hobart Chatfield-Taylor. 12mo, 315 pages, paper, 50 cents; cloth, $1.00.

It is the cleverest society novel which has come out of the West. . . . Taken as a whole it is a far abler story than several of its kind that have been written in the East by more practised pens. — The New York Herald.

TAYLOR. An American Peeress. By Hobart C. Chatfield-Taylor. 12mo, 293 pages, $1.00.

In it is portrayed an American woman in all the brilliancy of her truest colors, and with a character whose strength and honesty, together with a natural grace, make her worthy to adorn any title to which she might aspire. . . . It is in every respect a charming story. — The Baltimore American.

TENNYSON. Idylls of the King. By Alfred, Lord Tennyson. See Laurel-Crowned Verse, page 21.

THACKERAY. The English Humorists. By William Makepeace Thackeray. 16mo, gilt top, $1.00; half calf or half morocco, gilt top, $2.50.

These celebrated lectures, delivered by their author in England, Scotland, and America, and first published in 1853, have ever held a place in the front rank of English literature, and have won the admiration of all who have read them. This they do, not only because of their unaffected simplicity and naturalness, but also because they give an idea of the great English writers and humorists, such as Swift, Pope, Fielding, and Goldsmith, that can nowhere else be obtained.

THOMPSON. The Humbler Poets: A Collection of Newspaper and Periodical Verse. 1870 to 1885. By Slason Thompson. Crown 8vo, 459 pages, gilt top, $2.00; half calf or half morocco, gilt top, $4.00.

The high poetic character of these poems as a whole is surprising. As a unit, the collection makes an impression which even a genius of the highest order would not be adequate to produce. . . . Measured by poetic richness, variety, and merit of the selections contained, the collection is a rarely good one, flavored with the freshness and aroma of the present time. — The Independent, New York.

THURBER. Quaint Crippen, Commercial Traveler. By Alwyn M. Thurber. 12mo, 253 pages, paper, 50 cents; cloth, $1.00.

Quaint Crippen is a gossipy drummer for a Boston house. He makes friends in the railroad cars, after the manner of his kind, and is an all-around good fellow. He is pleasant, and so is the book. You will feel all the better for reading "Quaint Crippen," because it sketches human nature cleverly. Drummers will like it because it has enough trade atmosphere to enable them to criticise the author's knowledge of their business. — Halifax (N. S.) Daily Echo.

THWAITES. Historic Waterways: Six Hundred Miles of Canoeing down the Rock, Fox, and Wisconsin Rivers. By Reuben Gold Thwaites, Secretary State Historical Society of Wisconsin. With two maps of the routes, and a table of distances. 12mo, 298 pages, $1.25.

Mr. Thwaites is an enthusiastic canoeist, combining in "Historic Waterways" historic lore and vacation pleasuring in a very agreeable manner. The "historic waterways" are the Rock, Fox, and Wisconsin Rivers. He has traversed them all from fountain-head to mouth in his canoe, and what he does n't know about them, present and past, is hardly worth knowing. — The Epoch, New York.

THWAITES. Our Cycling Tour in England. From Canterbury to Dartmoor Forest, and back by way of Bath, Oxford, and the Thames Valley. By Reuben G. Thwaites. Illustrated. 12mo, 315 pages, $1.50.

It is a volume of travel that will take the reader out of the beaten path, and carry him amid rural scenes and surroundings that have the freshness and variety of Nature, untouched by the smoke and noise of the snorting steam-engine. . . . The descriptions are graphic, and show the close and loving observer of Nature and man in every page; and they are worthy of the pen that gave us "Historic Waterways." The Saturday Evening Gazette, Boston.

TOMLINS. The Child's Garden of Song. Selected and arranged by William L. Tomlins, Musical Director of the Apollo Club, of Chicago, and of the Children's Choruses of the World's Fair. With beautiful colored designs by Ella Ricketts. Quarto, $2.00.

The songs are all such as jingle with the innocent fancy of childhood; and one can picture the little ones crowding around their mpther or elder sister as she sits at the piano and plays the accompaniment for their fresh young voices. — New York Evening Advertiser.

The songs have been selected and arranged by Mr. William L. Tomlins, whose remarkable success with children's classes is well known. It is not unsafe to assert that it is by far the most beautifully illustrated book of its class ever published in the United States. Musically it takes the same high rank. No more exquisite gift for the young people could be selected. — Mr. George P. Upton, Chicago Tribune.

TOPELIUS. THE SURGEON'S STORIES.

Translated from the Swedish of Prof. Z. Topelius. 12mo, 75 cents a volume. The six volumes in neat box, $4.50.

As many of Scott's novels give vivid and truthful pictures of English history, so these stories present a galaxy of historical portraits more life-like than any drawn by the historian. — The San Francisco Chronicle.

Times of Gustaf Adolf: An Historical Romance of the Times of the Thirty Years' War.

Its vivid descriptions and thrilling episodes commend it to the lovers of romance, while its historical truthfulness and charming style make it attractive to literary readers of all classes. "The Story of the Thirty Years' War" is a fascinating chapter in history, and Topelius writes of it with great imaginative power and charm of style. — The Journal of Education, Boston.

Times of Battle and of Rest: An Historical Romance of the Times of Charles X. and Charles XI.

It gives a stirring and graphic account of the conquests of Charles X. in Poland and Denmark, . . . and the more peaceful but important events of the reign of Charles XI. . . . Topelius deals with the rich material before him like a true master of historical romance. — Good Literature, New York.

Times of Charles XII.: An Historical Romance of the Times of Charles XII.

Under an enthusiasm caught from the study of the times of which he writes, with a rare tact for an artistic grouping of characters, and with an equally rare talent for powerful delineation and description, Professor Topelius has given us a work which will both delight and instruct the reader. — The Interior, Chicago.

Times of Frederick I.: An Historical Romance of the Period succeeding the Reign of Charles XII.

It is simply wonderful, the way in which the attention is arrested and held, and the varied and apparently inexhaustible resources which the writer has at his command. He tells us of the actions and sayings of kings and peasants with the same unsurpassed ease and naturalness, with an air of vraisemblance, as the French would say, which is very enchanting. — The National Baptist, Philadelphia.

Times of Linnæus: An Historical Romance of the Times of the Great Naturalist Linnæus.

The author has proved himself a master of the art of combination, or of putting old things into new forms, and exhibiting them in new relations and associations. His stories are so full of stir and movement, and events are described with such spirit and minute circumstantiality, as to practically disarm the critic and convert him into an absorbed reader. — The Chicago Times.

Times of Alchemy: An Historical Romance of the Dawn of the Gustavian Period of Swedish History.

"The Surgeon's Stories" are at an end. . . . The story of the nation closes with the beginning of the present era of peace and stability, while the careers of the heroes and heroines who have helped to tell it, terminate where all well-ordered fictitious careers should, — at the marriage altar. The completion of "The Surgeon's Stories" forms an event in modern literature. — The Buffalo Express.

TOLD IN THE VERANDAH. Passages in the Life of Colonel Bowlong, set down by his Adjutant. 12mo, 271 pages. $1.50.

These stories of the impossible in Indian life first appeared in the "Madras Mail." One on the naked tiger was reprinted and widely copied in American newspapers; the others are like it, and they are all told by the wonderful Colonel Bowlong, alias Munchausen. The colonel relates his adventures and experiences with an abandon and defiance of nice accuracy of truth which adds immensely to the interest of the story in hand. While all the tales here reprinted are thrillingly entertaining, the colonel's account of his duel with Captain Venager cannot fail to be regarded as one of the most extraordinary encounters in fiction. — Philadelphia Press.

UPTON. HANDBOOKS ON MUSIC.

By George P. Upton. 12mo, flexible cloth, extra, $1.50 a volume. The four volumes in neat box, $6.00 a set; extra gilt, gilt edges, $8.00; half calf, gilt tops, $13.00; half morocco, gilt tops, $14.00; half morocco, gilt edges, $15.00.

The Standard Operas: Their Plots, their Music, and their Composers. A Handbook.

Among the multitude of handbooks which are published every year, and described by easy-going writers of book-notices as supplying a long-felt want, we know of none which so completely carries out the intention of the writer as "The Standard Operas," whose object is to present to its readers a comprehensive sketch of each of the operas contained in the modern repertory. — R. H. Stoddard, in The Mail and Express, New York.

The summaries of the plots are so clear, logical, and well-written that one can read them with real pleasure, which cannot be said of the ordinary operatic synopses. The Nation, New York.

The Standard Oratorios: Their Stories, their Music, and their Composers. A Handbook.

Like the valuable art handbooks of Mrs. Jameson, these volumes contain a world of interesting information, indispensable to critics and art amateurs. The volume under review is elegantly and succinctly written, and the subjects are handled in a thoroughly comprehensive manner. — Public Opinion, Washington.

The Standard Cantatas: Their Stories, their Music, and their Composers. A Handbook.

There is a study of the cantata in its various forms, from its early simple recitative or aria style down to its present elaborate construction. The selections include quite all of the cantatas that rank high in merit. It is the only handbook and guide for musicians and their friends, and is as valuable as either of the two admirable works preceding it. — The Boston Globe.

The Standard Symphonies: Their Stories, their Music, and their Composers. A Handbook.

The usefulness of this handbook cannot be doubted. Its pages are packed full of these fascinating renderings. The accounts of each composer are succinct and yet sufficient. The author has done a genuine service to the world of music-lovers. The comprehension of orchestral work of the highest character is aided efficiently by this volume. — Public Opinion, Washington.

UPTON. Woman in Music. By George P. Upton. 16mo, $1.00; half morocco, gilt top, $2.75.

Mr. Upton, in a series of comparatively brief chapters, has given us a kind of interior history of the domestic and heart relations of such composers as Bach, Handel, Beethoven, Mozart, Schumann, Chopin, and Wagner, filling in the larger sketches of these masters by lightly drawn but very interesting pictures of their relations with various gifted and unselfish women, who helped on their individual development, and laid the world under obligation by materially assisting in the production of some of their great compositions. — The Book-Buyer, New York.

UZANNE. The Book-Hunter in Paris: Being Studies among the Bookstalls of the Quays. By Octave Uzanne. With an Introduction by Augustine Birrell and 144 characteristic Illustrations interspersed in the text. Large 8vo, $5.00 net.

M. Uzanne has utilized the stores of a long experience, and has imbued the whole with his characteristic vivacity. The pages are sprinkled with anecdote, with observation of the casual and altogether entertaining sort. He is erudite, sympathetic, enthusiastic, — everything but sentimental or dull. — New York Tribune.

VON SUTTNER. "Ground Arms!" The Story of a Life. By Bertha Von Suttner. Translated from the German by Alice Asbury Abbot. 12mo, 286 pages, $1.00.

Entire absence of self-consciousness lends to her fiction so illusive a semblance of fact that, regarded simply as a story, the work must rank high. The imagination of the authoress has been kindled at the fire of intensest feeling, guided by a virile faculty of reasoning closely and logically. She pierces to the marrow of the thing that has taken hold of her. — International Journal of Ethics.

WALPOLE. The Best Letters of Horace Walpole. See Laurel-Crowned Letters, page 19.

WALTON. The Complete Angler; or, the Contemplative Man's Recreation, of Izaak Walton. Edited, with an Introduction, by Edward Gilpin Johnson. 16mo, gilt top, $1.00; half calf or morocco, gilt top, $2.50.

LARGE-PAPER EDITION. With Original Border Illustrations, printed in colors. Limited to 500 numbered copies, $4.00 net.

"The Complete Angler" has been printed in many different forms since its first appearance in 1653, but has never received a prettier or more attractive dress than that furnished by Messrs. McClurg & Co. — Journal of Education, Boston.

WATT. The Laws Lumber Room. By Francis Watt. 16mo. deckle edges, $1.00 net.

An interesting collection of antiquated legal customs and laws of mediæval origin recently abolished.

WHARTON. Sappho: Memoir, Text, Select Renderings, and a Literal Translation. By Henry Thornton Wharton, A.M., Oxon. With three illustrations in photogravure, and a cover designed by Aubrey Beardsley. Third Edition. 16mo, 217 pages, $2.25 net.

The book is a tribute, an exposition, a monument. To thousands who know not a letter of the Greek alphabet, it is a revelation; and for those thousands Sappho ceases henceforth to be a mere name, and becomes a splendid reality. — The Academy.

WHEELER. Our Industrial Utopia and Its Unhappy Citizens. By David Hilton Wheeler, Ex-President of Allegheny College. 12mo, 344 pages, $1.25.

Prof. David H. Wheeler has had varied editorial and educational experience, besides long residence abroad; and in his mature years he has written a book embodying his views of society and life. It is pleasant to note that he remains an optimist of the truest type. The discussions are by no means confined to barren idealities; for our author takes up the well-worn themes, competition, capital, money, labor, government, and ethics, and he treats them in anything but a well-worn way. He urges the democracy of modern wealth, defends the system of ownership by stocks and bonds, while decrying the rascality of their manipulation. The book is wholesome reading, and its attractive style makes dull themes attractive and difficult themes plain to the unskilled intelligence. — St. Paul Globe.

WOLF. The Joy of Life. A Novel. By Emma Wolf, author of "Other Things Being Equal." (In press.)

This is a new story by the author of "Other Things Being Equal," and is likely to prove even more successful than that popular book. Miss Wolf writes good clear English, and her character studies in this book are capital. The two brothers, as different as magnetic poles, and their love for the same girl, form a rare theme for the novelist, and one which is handled in a masterly way. The unfolding of the plot, which means simply the unfolding and developing of the characters, is absorbing in its interest; and not until the very end of the last chapter will the reader, unless possessed of very unusual insight, be able to find the thread which will lead to the end of the passage. The scene is in a growing modern Western city, with whose life and conditions the author is thoroughly at home.

WOLF. Other Things being Equal. A Novel. By Emma Wolf. 12mo, 275 pages, $1.00.

It is a romance, pure and simple, and has the rare merit of artistic unity. . . . It is a relief to find an unspoiled story of pure sentiment, without sensationalism, mawkish sentimentality, affected eccentricity, or the least sign of pandering to the too popular compromise with immorality. — The Boston Post.

ZAHM. Sound and Music. By the Rev. J. A. Zahm, C. S. C., Ph.D., Professor of Physics in the University of Notre Dame. With 195 Illustrations, Royal 8vo, 452 pages, $2.50; half calf or half morocco, gilt top, $5.00.

I was much pleased, as you know, with the work when I read it in manuscript; but its worth has impressed me more in its present garb. To my mind, it is by far the most accurate and complete of books on modern acoustics and on the acoustic bases of harmony. — Prof. Alfred M. Mayer, of Stevens Institute of Technology.

THE STANDARD SPEAKER. Containing Exercises in Prose and Poetry, Gathered from Among the Most Celebrated Orators, Authors, and Popular Debaters, Ancient and Modern; A Treatise on Oratory and Elocution; With Notes Explanatory and Biographical. Designed for Use in Declamation in Schools, Academies, Lyceums, and Colleges. By EPES SARGENT.

In one demi-octavo volume, 538 pages, half roan, ... $1 60*

A higher reputation throughout the United States has been acquired by this Speaker than any other similar work. In its production there has been a great expenditure of original labor, and it contains all the great masterpieces of eloquence, while it abounds in original translations from the Greek, Latin, and French.

"A collection of many of the rarest and brightest gems in English literature, no less adapted to family reading and literary reference than for schools."—New York Tribune.

E. P. WHIPPLE, the distinguished Essayist and Critic, writes: "The best compilation of the kind, in the variety and in the comprehensiveness of its selections, which has yet been made on either side of the Atlantic. The various pieces are selected with great judgment, and not only is the volume admirably adapted to serve its primal purposes as a Speaker, but the general reader will find it to be a most stimulating and attractive book, far excelling any work of 'elegant extracts' we have seen."

THE INTERMEDIATE STANDARD SPEAKER. Containing Pieces for Declamation, Dialogues, etc., in Schools and Colleges; Introductory or Supplementary to the Standard Speaker.

In one volume, 12mo, 432 pages, half Turkey, ... 1 10*

This Speaker contains a capital collection of Dialogues, and short, spirited pieces for declamation; and the original Debates have acquired for it a well-merited and wide-spread reputation. The pieces are quite distinct from those contained in the larger Standard Speaker.

THE PRIMARY STANDARD SPEAKER. Containing Original and Selected Pieces, Especially Adapted to Declamation for the Youngest Pupils. Elegantly Illustrated.

In one 16mo volume, 160 pages, half roan, ... 28*

For beginners in Declamation, this is the most attractive and serviceable work in the language; the selections being admirable, the original pieces skilfully adapted to their purpose, and the whole style of the book of a superior character.

FROST'S AMERICAN SPEAKER. Comprising a Comprehensive Treatise on Elocution, and an Extensive Selection of Specimens of American and Foreign Eloquence. By JOHN FROST, LL.D., Author of "The History of the United States," etc., etc.

In one volume, 12mo, 448 pages, half roan, ... $0 90*

This volume furnishes, within a small space, a correct and most satisfactory Treatise on the Principles of Elocution; with a rich and copious collection of specimens of Deliberative, Forensic, Academic, and Popular Eloquence. It has met with a very rapid sale, and the estimation in which it is held by intelligent teachers has been attested by numerous recommendations.

"The best compilation of the kind that has ever met my eye. The principles of elocution therein laid down are excellent, and well calculated to promote eloquence in every youthful American freeman. The extracts are of a high order, and breathe the spirit of liberty and independence."—William Alexander.

SUMMARY OF HISTORY. Designed to Accompany Lord's Modern History. By IDA P. WHITCOMB, of Packer Collegiate Institute, Brooklyn, New York. One volume, 12mo, bound in cloth, gilt, ... 45*

"This summary consists of chronological tables drawn up to accompany Dr. Lord's Modern History by one who has used it for instruction for several years. It commences with 1483, touches the most prominent biographical, political, military, and religious events, and will be a great convenience to all, as well as a help to students."—North American, Philadelphia.

"The book is well and clearly drawn, worthily clothing great facts; as the latter aptly suggest the former. The style of the work is a model of historical art. The chronological tables and questions are full, useful, and good."—Journal of Education.

GOLDSMITH'S HISTORY OF ROME. Pinnock's Revised Edition. To which is Prefixed an Introduction to the Study of Roman History, the Manners, Institutions, and Antiquities of the Romans, with Questions for Examination at the End of each Section. By W. C. TAYLOR, LL.D. Illustrated with Numerous Engravings by Atherton and other Artists. A new and revised edition.

One volume, 12mo, 399 pages, half roan, ... 1 00*

"Pinnock's Goldsmith's Rome holds the rank of a school classic, and should be found in almost every school in England and America in which history is studied."—North American, Philadelphia.

GOLDSMITH'S HISTORY OF GREECE. Pinnock's Revised Edition. Revised, Corrected, and Greatly Enlarged by the Addition of Several New Chapters, Numerous Useful Notes, and Questions for Examination at the End of Each Section. By W. C. TAYLOR, LL.D. Illustrated with Numerous Engravings by Atherton and other equally distinguished Artists. One volume, 12mo, 365 pages, half roan, ... 1 00*

The alterations that have been made in this new edition of the Grecian history are so numerous and extensive as almost to make it a new work. The original history of Dr. Goldsmith contains many anecdotes of doubtful interest and authority, derived from Plutarch and Curtius; while such important matters as the Dorian migration and the sedition of Ceylon are wholly omitted.

"The style and elegance of the language, the arrangement of the chapters and the questions for examination render 'Pinnock's improved edition of Goldsmith's Rome,' in my estimation, a most valuable school-book."—J. F. Gould, Baltimore.

* Special short discount.

GOLDSMITH'S HISTORY OF ENGLAND. Pinnock's Improved Edition. From the Invasion of Julius Cæsar to the Present Time. With Questions for Examination, Tables of Contemporary Sovereigns and Eminent Persons, Copious Notes, Remarks on the Politics, Manners, and Literature of the Age, an Outline of the British Constitution, and Numerous Engravings. By W. C. TAYLOR, LL.D., of Trinity College, Dublin; Author of a "Manual of Ancient and Modern History," etc. A new, revised, and enlarged edition.

In one volume, 12mo, 542 pages, half roan, ... $1 00*

THE HISTORY OF FRANCE AND NORMANDY. Pinnock's Revised Edition. From the Earliest Times to the Present Period. With Questions for Examination, and Numerous Engravings. By W. C. TAYLOR, LL.D. A new and revised edition.

In one volume, 12mo, 500 pages, half roan, ... 1 00*

Among the many Histories of England and of France that have been written, none have been so long and so deservedly popular as these two admirable books, combining as they both do, to an attractive, vivid, and perfectly intelligible style, a simple and clear narrative of historical facts. Their established classical character was sufficient to justify the publishers in selecting the most improved editions of these works to be revised and adapted to the use of schools in the United States.

Social Interpretations of the Principles of Mental Development. In Preparation.

Dictionary of Philosophy and Psychology. Edited by J. MARK BALDWIN of Princeton University. In Preparation.

The work is to be strictly a dictionary, and is to have two general features:

1. It will contain concise definitions of all the terms in use in the whole range of philosophical study (philosophy, metaphysics, psychology, ethics, logic).

2. It will contain such historical matter under each term as may be necessary to justify the definition given and to show that the usage suggested is the outcome of the progress of philosophy.

With these features to give it character, and with the contributions of the leading men in this department of thought, from England, America, Germany, and France, to give it authority, it is hoped that it may come to be a standard work, and render to philosophy in a measure the service of "setting" the terminology of the different philosophical disciplines, and thus remove what is by common consent the greatest hindrance to their advance, i.e., the varying and conflicting usages of terms which now prevail.

Second, such a book should serve both the teacher and the student in a most essential way. Teachers would have a consistent and, as far as the influence of the book might extend, uniform system of meanings with which to introduce these topics in the class-room; and students would have the corresponding advantage of learning once for all the accepted terminology.

Further, it is hoped that men who are most competent in the several departments may contribute, and that in the result their work may present a fairly adequate statement of the present state of these studies in the world.

THE NEW-CHURCH REVIEW.

A Quarterly Journal of the Christian Thought and Life set forth from the Scriptures by Emanuel Swedenborg.

THE doctrines given to the world in the theological writings of EMANUEL SWEDENBORG are of the loftiest and broadest scope, dealing with the subjects of the Divine Being, His Incarnation in the person of our Lord Jesus Christ, the Glorification of His Human, His Second Coming by the opening of the internal sense of His Word, the spiritual nature of man and the order of his creation and regeneration, the spiritual world as man's eternal abode and as the world of causes from which all things in nature come forth as effects, the correspondence therefore of the two worlds with each other in general and in each particular, the universality of the Divine Providence and its relation to permitted evils, the heavenly nature of marriage, and the relation of gentile religions to Christianity.

Under the Divine Providence the world, as we believe, has thus been furnished with a revelation of truth drawn from the Divine Word, which, as it comes gradually to be received in heart and mind and life, will accomplish the fulfilment of prophecy and restore the Lord's kingdom upon the earth.

THE REVIEW seeks to give some expression to this truth and to bring its light to bear not only on events within the organization of the New Church, but on matters of general interest. It will stand ready to recognize whatever is hopeful and progressive in the religious world and in the fields of literature and science.

THE REVIEW is in the hands of a board of editors, consisting of the Rev. Theodore F. Wright, Ph.D., who has general charge, the Rev. James Reed, the Rev. Samuel M. Warren, and the Rev. Julian K. Smyth.

Each quarterly number contains one hundred and sixty pages, about one third of which is editorial. The yearly subscription is two dollars; single numbers, fifty cents.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Ruskin's Works—The Authorized (Brantwood) Edition.*

In accordance with a contract with Mr. Ruskin's English publisher, we have the pleasure of announcing the publication of the Brantwood Edition of Ruskin's Works in 22 volumes. This is the only edition published in this country with Mr. Ruskin's consent, and from the sale of which he derives a profit. The illustrations have been prepared under the author's personal supervision, and the type, paper, and style of binding are in accordance with his suggestions. Each of the prose works contains a special introduction by Prof. Charles Eliot Norton, of Harvard College, explaining the purposes for, and the conditions under which, it was written. These introductions from the pen of Mr. Ruskin's most intimate friend and most acute and sympathetic critic, many of them containing extracts from personal letters written while the works were in preparation, give to this edition a rare and unique value. The two volumes of poetry, written between the ages of seven and twenty-six, with an appendix of later poems, now first collected from original manuscript and printed sources, are edited in chronological order, with notes biographical and critical by Mr. Ruskin's secretary, William G. Collingwood, M.A. The chronological arrangement of the poems—the author's age at the time of writing being printed at the top of each page—illustrates in a most interesting manner the development of his mind and style. The two volumes of poems have been copyrighted in this country under the new law, and the attention of the public is called to the fact that, by virtue of this copyright, we shall hereafter be the only publishers in this country able to supply Ruskin's works in a uniform style of binding. This edition is intended to include what Mr. Ruskin and his literary advisers regard as the essential and permanent part of his writings, and comprises the following:

The Army of the United States.—A series of historical sketches of staff and line edited for the Military Service Institution by General Theo. F. Rodenbough and Major William L. Haskin. Illustrated with autotype portraits of Generals-in-Chief, 1789-1895.

"It is with pleasure that I avail myself of an opportunity to commend this effort of the Military Service Institution to provide an authentic and condensed account of the services of the Army, from the creation of our military establishment to the present day. Each staff-corps and regiment of the line has here its chosen historian and its modest memoir replete with biographical as well as historical data. Its form gives it a unique character of special value as a work of reference. It represents the completion of a series of historical sketches which have appeared from time to time during the last few years in the Journal of the Military Service Institution of the United States, and comprises an amount of gratuitous labor by contributors and of public spirit on the part of the publishers that merits public acknowledgment. I have no hesitation in saying that it deserves a place in every public library, and is worthy of preservation by all collectors of military works."—Introduction by Major-General Nelson A. Miles.

The Political Cyclopædia.

Every one who wishes to think, speak, and act intelligently upon the great questions of the day needs this work, written by the most eminent specialists in this country and Europe; e.g., David A. Wells discusses the Tariff and Tariff Legislation from the standpoint of the free-trader, and D. H. Mason from the point of view of the protectionist. E. L. Godkin writes of Office-Holders, Prof. Alexander Johnston the articles on the Political History of the United States, Dorman B. Eaton of Civil-Service Reform, Pres. D. C. Gilman of Universities, Simon Sterne of Railroads, Pres. F. A. Walker of Public Revenue and Wages, Edward Atkinson of Banks, John J. Knox of the Currency, etc., Thomas M. Cooley, President Interstate Commerce Commission, of The Bar, Law of Corporations, etc., Horatio C. Burchard, ex-Director of the Mint, of Coinage, Gold, Silver, etc.

Of the multitude of cordial endorsements of the Cyclopædia received from prominent men in all parts of the country, the following are fairly representative:

GEORGE F. EDMUNDS writes: "A well-arranged and useful book of reference."

Prof. DAVID SWING says: "The three large volumes seem like foundation stones of our world. The most fundamental terms are defined and their import discussed. Events which acted as causes or come as results of society are to be found in this massive collection. These books, like a radius, sweep around the circle of political knowledge."

JAMES G. BLAINE writes: "I use it almost daily for reference, and regard it as a model."

THOMAS M. COOLEY writes: "An excellent work, convenient for any one to have, and invaluable to a student of the Political Sciences or of American History."

J. C. BANCROFT DAVIS writes: "The work will materially help to make better citizens and more intelligent voters of the young men into whose hands it will go and who are to control our destinies."

The ATLANTA CONSTITUTION says: "It is doubtful indeed if a more important work of reference has ever been prepared."

THE NEW YORK NATION says: "A timely and valuable aid to political education. We cannot withhold our warm commendation of the industry and discrimination of the editor, and the enterprise of the publishers."

THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE says: "The type, binding, and all the technical details of this really great work of reference are of the best kind, and we can heartily echo President White's commendation and say, 'The book ought to be in the library, not only of every man who takes an active part in politics, but of every one who wishes to give thought to the discharge of his ordinary political duties.'"

They make a very readable and entertaining collection."—Independent, N. Y.

Long, Lily A.

APPRENTICES TO DESTINY. By the author of "A Squire of Low Degree." 12mo, 348 pages, paper, 50 cents; cloth, $1.00.

"Miss Long contends that the life of the cultivated folk of our trans-Mississippi cities is worthy of chronicle, and endeavors in this book to prove her thesis. A novel out of the West, it is a type of what Western literature should be—free, wholesome, and hearty, in which one can take honest satisfaction. Her heroine is influenced by a socialistic idealist and thinks she sees in his work for humanity the object which she requires to fill her own life. The story is well written, the narrative is lively, and the author shows that she is possessed of excellent literary ability."—Literary News.

"Mr. Pratt has worked out an idea so striking for its attractiveness and utility, that perceiving it, we at once go to work wondering that somebody else had not executed it before him. He has gone over the vast and superb areas of John Ruskin's writings, and cutting out one block here and another there, as it suited his purpose, has put all these parts together again into a literary mosaic, constituting a clear and harmonious system of art principles, wherein Ruskin all the while is the teacher. He has reduced Ruskin to a code. On the whole, we see not what this book lacks of being a complete text-book of the Gospel of Art according to St. John Ruskin."—Christian Union.

THE RAILWAY PROBLEM. Numerous illustrative diagrams, some in colors. 12mo, 250 pages, cloth, $2.00; half-leather, gilt top, $2.50.
Paper edition without diagrams, 50 cents.

"It is a painstaking effort to throw new light on a question where a great deal is needed, and to do justice to all parties, instead of writing from the standpoint of one only. It contains much interesting history, and not a few bright pieces of criticism." — Railroad Gazette (New York).

"An intelligent treatise on the railway problem, indispensable to all who are studying the question." — The Times, (Philadelphia).

"It is a vigorous arraignment of railway management." — Baltimore American.

"It goes over carefully, with illustrated diagrams, the whole era of railroad construction, management, competition, tariffs, passes, legal rates and discrimination, stock manipulation and watering, earnings, etc., with the consideration of all these and the kindred subject of railroad legislation in the light of the nation's ownership of the roads as highways, and the right to consider their tolls as taxes, and their operators as licensed servants of the government." — Brooklyn Daily Eagle.

"Mr. Stickney has for many years been directly connected with railroad construction, operation and financiering, and during that time has undoubtedly rendered to the public as well as to the railway world, a large amount of valuable service, but it is safe to say that in the writing of his book entitled 'The Railway Problem,' he has performed a service both to the public and the railroad world than which all else which he has done pales into insignificance." — The Railway Review (Chicago).

"It is written in compact, forcible, almost epigramatic style, and it would be difficult to condense its arguments and views. The author is certainly not biased by prejudice, either for or against the railroads." — Ohio State Journal.

Tourgee, Albion W.

OUT OF THE SUNSET SEA. Illustrated by AIMÉE TOURGÉE. Crown 8vo, 462 pages, cloth, extra, gilt top, $1.75.

"The tale is mainly concerned with the adventures of one Arthur Lake, who under the name of Tallerte de Lajes, sails with Columbus on his great voyage. This young man has dozens of adventures, death pursues him everywhere, but never quite overtakes him. He baffles even the schemes of the Inquisition, and passes unscathed through whole batteries of bright eyes. He is an admirably reckless youth; and we like him, as we like the story in which Judge Tourgée has put him." — Morning Journal.

AND STOCK OF BOOKS OF

have been purchased by The Metaphysical Publishing Company. The services of Mr. Harry Gestefeld have been secured, and he will hereafter have charge of the Library, which will be extensively enlarged; also of our Book and Stationery Departments. We shall be pleased to receive orders and communications from Mr. Gestefeld's friends and former patrons. With the increased facilities now at our disposal, we can guarantee the most prompt and efficient service in every branch.

We now control also, wholesale and retail, the works of

of which the following is a partial list:

THE SCIENCE OF THE CHRIST. . . . . Cloth, $3.00

This is an argument from the premise, "All is Mind," which shows the Christ to be inherent in every man as the logical necessity of his nature, and ultimately to be developed by all. It points out the law and the generating process by which our latent divinity is quickened and fructified: the evolution in humanity which is to bring the highest product, and which can be consciously co-operated with to the establishment of the Christ-consciousness now and here. It makes application of this deduction to the Book of Genesis, correcting the error which supposes the first two chapters to be differing accounts of the creation of the world, and showing them to be the continuous and consecutive illustration of the nature of Man, both microcosm and macrocosm. An invaluable work for students of metaphysical thought, as it consists of clear, logical deductions from premise to conclusion.

A PRIMARY STATEMENT OF CHRISTIAN SCIENCE. Cloth, $2.00

A most helpful book for those who wish to gain an understanding of the basic principles of the Science of Being and how to apply them for demonstration. Full directions for treatment of disease are given, with directions for its prevention also. The student of this work can virtually become his own healer.

A CHICAGO BIBLE CLASS. . . . . Cloth, $1.50

A view of the leading incidents in the life of Jesus as given in the Gospels, which translates them from the past to the present as the experiences of those who have discerned the Son of God in themselves, and by which they practically prove their dominion over all things through the God-power they have found and can use.

THE LEPROSY OF MIRIAM. . . . . Cloth, $1.25

The characters in this story typify the consequences of living up to one's best, or down to one's worst qualities, as aspiration for the higher enables us to rule the lower nature. The power of thought in creating environment and opportunity, and, according to its quality, the moulding of circumstances by conscious and trained, or merely impulsive thinking, is most interestingly illustrated.

THE PRODIGAL SON. . . . . Cloth, 50 cents

An unfolding of the inner significance of this Parable which reveals our present possibilities when we have awakened to the resources of Mind — the "Father's House" — and are ready to put them to use. It shows how we have "wasted our substance," or depended upon the limited exercise of will-power when the Infinite Energy was at hand.

AUTUMN LIST OF BOOKS ISSUED IN CHOICE AND LIMITED EDITIONS BY THOMAS B. MOSHER, AT XLV EXCHANGE STREET, PORTLAND, MAINE, SEASON OF MDCCCXCVI.

THE OLD WORLD SERIES.

THE OLD WORLD SERIES is in format, a narrow Fcap 8vo, printed from new type on a size of Van Gelder paper made for this edition only. Original head bands and tail pieces have been freely used with the best effects, and each issue has its special cover design. Bound in flexible Japan vellum with silk ribbon marker, white parchment wrappers, gold seals and in slide cases, an almost ideal volume is offered the book lover.

THE FIRST EDITION IS AS FOLLOWS:

925 COPIES ON VAN GELDER'S HAND MADE PAPER AT $1.00 NET.
100 " " JAPAN VELLUM (NUMBERED) AT $2.50 NET.

Four New Volumes in Press:

III. THE NEW LIFE. (La Vita Nuova.)

TRANSLATED FROM THE ITALIAN OF DANTE ALIGHIERI BY DANTE GABRIEL ROSSETTI.

OF all the versions of this exquisite love story none equal Rossetti's incomparable translation. Heretofore it has only been accessible in editions that to say the least were destitute of much typographical attraction. No book lover could forever rest satisfied with this state of things, hence THE NEW LIFE in our Old World format, giving as frontispiece Rossetti's singularly appropriate picture — Dante's Dream — and restoring the divisions as in the original Italian text.

The story has been left to tell itself, care having been taken to free it from all unnecessary exegesis. For the first time then La Vita Nuova is presented the English reader "in all its fresh, untrammelled loveliness."

IV. BALLADS AND LYRICS OF OLD FRANCE

WITH OTHER POEMS BY ANDREW LANG.

THE BALLADS AND LYRICS OF OLD FRANCE is undoubtedly one of the scarcest if not the scarcest of all modern first editions. Issued in 1872, it has never been reprinted as a whole, although portions of it were permitted to find their way at intervals into later volumes by Mr. Lang.

The OLD WORLD edition reproduces the entire text, and thus a volume inaccessible to all except the wealthy collector, is once more within reach of the American book lover.

V. THE KASIDAH (couplets) OF HAJI ABDU EL-YEZDI.

A Lay of the Higher Law by Captain Sir Richard F. Burton.

THE publisher does not hesitate to affirm that The Kasidah must eventually take rank next after FitzGerald's Rubaiyat, as a poem charged with incomparable Oriental splendour, such only as a great native poet could have set forth.

Composed seven years before FitzGerald printed his Omar in 1859, it was not put into type until 1880, and as thus issued known only to the "fortunate few" nine years later. The text and notes were included in Lady Burton's Life of Sir Richard Burton, (1893) and, so bulky is the book, practically buried out of sight. In 1894 a privately printed edition of 100 copies was issued in London, uniform with the subscriber's sets of Burton's Arabian Nights.

All of these being quite out of reach, The Kasidah is now given in its first accessible edition.

VI. SYLVIE. (Recollections of Valois.)

Translated from the French of Gerard De Nerval by Lucie Page.

"SYLVIE" is one of those exquisite creations that has best been written about by Mr. Andrew Lang. He has called it "one of the little masterpieces of the world. One reads it, and however old one is, youth comes back, and April, and a thousand pleasant sounds of birds in hedges, of winds in the boughs, of brooks trotting merrily under the rustic bridge. And this fresh nature is peopled by girls eternally young, natural, gay, or pensive, standing with eager feet on the threshold of their life, innocent, expectant, with the old ballads of old France on their lips."

The present translation is by a lady who has turned this little French classic into faithful English, with all its illusive charm intact. The frontispiece is in collatype from an original aquarelle commissioned by the publisher from the young French artist, Andhré des Gachons, whose delicate work will presently be more widely known in this country.

Previous Volumes:

I. RUBÁIYÁT OF OMAR KHAYYÁM. Third Edition.

Rendered into English Verse by Edward FitzGerald, with Bibliography and Variorum Text.

THIS is not a mere reprint of the "Bibelot" edition, but has been edited with a view to making FitzGerald's wonderful version indispensible in its present "Old World" shape. To this end an entirely new biographical sketch has been prepared by Mr. W. Irving Way, of Chicago, who has long been in touch with the Omar cult; parallel texts are given of the First and Fourth versions, and, a Variorum is printed, giving all textual changes occurring in the Second, Third and Fourth editions. To the student of literature THESE CANCELLED READINGS will prove especially interesting and valuable. THESE SPECIAL FEATURES CAN ONLY BE FOUND IN THE OLD WORLD edition. The omitted quatrains of the Second edition are also included.

II. AUCASSIN AND NICOLETE. Second Edition.

Done into English by Andrew Lang.

OF the four complete translations into English of this exquisite old French love story, that by Andrew Lang is unquestionably the finest. It is also the most inaccessible, a copy readily bringing to-day in the London book shops, three to five guineas and upwards.

The "Old World" edition reproduces in collatype the etched titlepage of this scarce London edition printed in a delicate Sepia ink on Japanese vellum.

FOR the Holiday Season of 1896, a limited number of Cabinet style boxes have been prepared to hold 4 and 6 volumes each of THE OLD WORLD SERIES.

The books are daintily wrapped and sealed as usual, and then enclosed in these beautiful little boxes, covered with a watered silk design of end-papers specially imported. No extra charge, however, is made, and sets of the four new volumes or of the six volumes complete can be safely mailed to any address.

The boxes cannot be supplied separately.

THE BIBELOT SERIES.

THE BIBELOT SERIES is modeled on an old style format, narrow 8vo, and beautifully printed on Van Gelder's hand-made paper, uncut edges; done up in flexible Japan Vellum, with outside wrappers, dainty gold seals, each in separate slide case. Every issue has an original cover design, and of the first six volumes only 725 copies were printed. Beginning with the two volumes for 1896, the edition will in future consist of 925 copies.

PRICE PER VOLUME $1.00 NET.

NOTE.—Besides the hand-made paper edition, 100 copies of the two new volumes for 1896 will be printed on Imperial Japan Vellum, numbered from 1 to 100, at $2.50 net.

THE BIBELOT SERIES WILL NOT BE REISSUED.

The Two New "Bibelots" for 1896.

VII. THE RUBAIYAT OF OMAR KHAYYAM.

TRANSLATED INTO ENGLISH PROSE BY JUSTIN HUNTLY MCCARTHY.

THE only complete English prose version extant, preceded by an introduction of some 40 pages that is a delightfully original and sympathetic study of Omar and his translators.

VIII. THE DEFENCE OF GUENEVERE.

A BOOK OF LYRICS CHOSEN FROM THE WORKS OF WILLIAM MORRIS.

THIS volume makes good our last year's promise to "present the one other poet, who, in his work, completes the group of Pre-Raphaelite brethren in art and letters."

PREVIOUS VOLUMES:

I. SONGS OF ADIEU.

II. OLD WORLD LYRICS.

III. RUBAIYAT OF OMAR KHAYYAM.

IIII. FELISE.

V. SONNETS OF MICHAEL ANGELO.

VI. THE BLESSED DAMOZEL.

Of the above six volumes, all are out of print except 10 copies of "FELISE" at $2.00 net; and 30 copies of "THE BLESSED DAMOZEL" at $1.50 net.

THE BROCADE SERIES.

LAST year it seemed desirable to issue Walter Pater's early 'imaginary portrait,' THE CHILD IN THE HOUSE, in a shape and style that would be at once choice and moderate in price. The book lover, it is evident, appreciated the opportunity to procure a book printed on genuine Japan vellum.

The success of this edition was so evident that Mr. Mosher has now decided to bring out two other little books this season, to be known as THE BROCADE SERIES, so named from the style of slide cases in which each volume is enclosed.

So far as known this is the first attempt to issue books printed on genuine hand-made Japan Vellum at a price that is so moderate as to almost cause incredulity.

THE FOLLOWING VOLUMES ARE NOW READY:

I. THE CHILD IN THE HOUSE. By Walter Pater. 4th edition.

II. THE PAGEANT OF SUMMER. By Richard Jefferies.

III. AMIS AND AMILE. Translated by William Morris.

PRICE 75 CENTS NET, EACH IN BROCADE SLIDE CASE.

For the holidays, sets of THE BROCADE SERIES are put up in cabinet style boxes, 3 volumes, at $2.25 net, postpaid, and can be safely mailed to any address, here or abroad.

THE ENGLISH REPRINT SERIES.

I. GEORGE MEREDITH.

MODERN LOVE, WITH FOREWORD BY E. CAVAZZA, 1891.

Entirely out of print.

II. JAMES THOMSON.

THE CITY OF DREADFUL NIGHT, WITH INTRODUCTION BY E. CAVAZZA, 1892.

20 Small Paper copies only remain and are now $2.50 net.

III. ROBERT BRIDGES.

THE GROWTH OF LOVE, WITH A BRIEF AND GENERAL CONSIDERATION BY LIONEL JOHNSON, 1894.

Very few Small Paper copies remain, and are now $2.00 net.

HOMEWARD SONGS BY THE WAY. A. E.

THIS is a little book of poetry that has met with warm commendations from Mr. E. C. Stedman, and the English critics generally. A limited edition was issued in small quarto shape, choicely printed on Van Gelder paper, with original cover and title-page designs by Bruce Rogers, of which few copies remain unsold.

PRICE $1.00 NET.

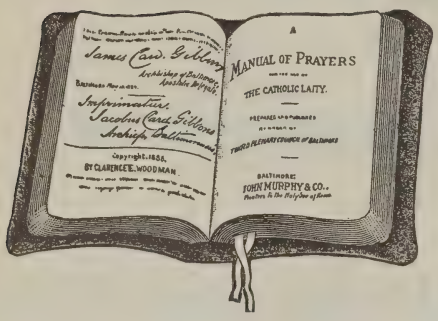
THE NEW PRAYER BOOK.

THE MANUAL OF PRAYERS.



"We have certainly had no stint of prayer books before the appearance of this one; but had there not been room for another it is certain that the Fathers of the Third Plenary Council would not have ordered one to be prepared and published. It was partly because of this very plentifulness that such action was taken, for many editions, with all kinds of titles, have been put upon the market, some of them even without episcopal approbation, some still bearing the imprimatur of bishops long since dead, and some even, sad to say, appearing with a supposed approval, which they had not received. A great many, even of the old editions, were exact reprints of foreign books that contained matter not suitable for this country, and ignoring matters that should be found in every American prayer book. Besides, in most cases, the ruling of the authorities in Rome regarding the printing of portions of the Mass and other parts of the liturgy in Latin was not complied with; and several publishers, in their eagerness to outdo rivals, inserted much matter that should have no place in a prayer book, as having no reference to any service or function in the church, but belonging rather to a work of pious reading or instruction. Many prayer books were thus made far too bulky for general use.

"It was with a view of correcting these abuses that the Manual before us was ordered to be prepared, and the priest to whom the work was entrusted has performed his duty faithfully and well. Having, in the first place, used nothing that was of doubtful authority and utility, he then submitted proof sheets of his book to the inspection of all the Bishops of the country and their views on every point he has strictly complied with. It has the imprimatur of Cardinal Gibbons, the Primate of the United States, and of Archbishop Corrigan of New York, who had special supervision of the work, and the endorsement of the entire American Hierarchy.

"Beginning with an abstracted calendar of feasts celebrated in the United States, which is followed by an abridgment of Christian doctrine, it contains not only various forms of morning and evening prayers, the devotions at Mass, instructions for Confession and Communion, the Way of the Cross, the Rosary and Scapular, as well as on the Sacraments, devotions for the sick and dying, etc., but also the Ordinary and Canon of the Mass, the Vesper service (followed by a directory for finding the psalms and hymns appointed to be sung on Sundays and principal festivals of the Christian year), Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament, the blessing of candles, ashes, children and rosaries, the forms of the Sacraments of Baptism, Confirmation, Matrimony and Extreme Unction, the churching of women, the recommendation of a departing soul, the marriage service and nuptial mass, the burial service and office and mass for the dead, the hymns and sequences for Church seasons, etc., in both Latin and English; and not only the Epistles and Gospels for Sundays and feast days, but also the introits, collects, and post-communion. And especially should every American Catholic be pleased to find in this volume (at page 56) 'the Prayer for the Church, the Civil Authorities, etc.,' composed by Bishop Carroll in the year 1800, so long omitted for some unaccountable reason from all our prayer books."

The American Catholic Quarterly Review.

Testimonials on the Manual of Prayers

FROM

Archbishops and Bishops.

The Manual of Prayers, compiled in accordance with the decrees of the Plenary Council of Baltimore, is a very creditable work, both in point of form and matter. I warmly recommend its use to the faithful of this Diocese.

M. A. CORRIGAN, ARCHBISHOP OF NEW YORK.

It gives me great gratification to pronounce the work to be, beyond all comparison, the most complete prayer book in the English Language. Independently of its utility as a manual of prayers, it will be found invaluable as a book of reference and instruction, containing admirable translations of the most important portions of the Liturgy of the Church. To priests it will be for this reason very useful in explaining the doctrines and ceremonies of the Sacraments and Sacramentals.

P. J. RYAN, ARCHBISHOP OF PHILADELPHIA.

I trust the book will meet with that approbation which its merit, as a manual of devotion, deserves. Yours sincerely,

P. W. RIORDAN, ARCHBISHOP OF SAN FRANCISCO.

The book long ago received a pretty thorough examination at my hands, and won my complete approval. It remains merely to wish that the book may very soon come into the hands of all Catholics, to be by them devoutly and diligently used. I am, very faithfully, your servant in Xt,

A. A. CURTIS, BISHOP OF WILMINGTON.

We have waited long for this Manual, and our reward is all the greater, for the book is superior to any I know, and complete both in type, style, and formalities of prayers and devotions.

Very sincerely in Christ,

E. P. WADHAMS, BISHOP OF OGDENSBURG.

Its careful compilation by competent clergymen, and the approbation of the Apostolic Delegate, should earnestly commend it to all good Catholics. I congratulate you on the elegant manner in which the work has been brought out.

Yours faithfully in Xt,

JOHN FOLEY, BISHOP OF DETROIT.

Though I saw and partially examined it in course of publication, I must confess that I am more than pleased with it in the form and style in which you have brought it out. It is full and complete in matter, and it will enable the laity to follow understandingly and fruitfully the devotional, soul-inspiring liturgy of the Church in all its offices, rites, and prayers. I most heartily recommend it, and hope that it may soon come into general use among our people.

Yours respectfully,

S. V. RYAN, BISHOP OF BUFFALO.

The bishop is well pleased with the Manual; it is intelligently edited, and, he adds, for an explanation of the Sacraments, ceremonies, and liturgy of the Church, it will prove a welcome and instructive book for the Catholics of the United States; it is a splendid book indeed to place in the hands of non-Catholics as well.

Very respectfully yours,

JOHN F. LANG, SECRETARY, DIOCESE OF FORT WAYNE.

It is indeed gratifying to have at last a book of common prayer for the Catholic laity of the United States, recommended and approved by the American hierarchy. Certainly no further recommendation is necessary, and I earnestly trust that as it is the most authoritative prayer book ever published in this country, it may speedily supercede all others now in use, and find its way into the hands of all the faithful. I am gratefully and sincerely yours,

MAURICE F. BURKE, BISHOP OF CHEYENNE.

I was very much pleased with the perusal of the book. The instructions and explanations it contains about the Sacraments are very important. It is a very useful prayer book, and I hope it will soon be in the hands of every English-speaking Catholic. I remain sincerely yours,

JOHN C. NERAZ, BISHOP OF SAN ANTONIO.

The approval by the Cardinal and the "imprimatur" of the Archbishop of New York are a sufficient guarantee that the book is in strict conformity with the doctrines and discipline of the Church. It is my wish that a copy of the prayer book may find its way into every Catholic home in this diocese.

J. O'SULLIVAN, BISHOP OF MOBILE.

Sound doctrine is the basis of all solid piety. The Manual instructs whilst it feeds the soul with holy inspirations and teaches how to pray. Nothing that a good prayer book should contain seems to have been omitted. Your part of the labor will meet the approval of all who appreciate taste and art in book-making. I trust the Manual will soon be in universal use. Very sincerely yours,

LEO HAID, VIC. APOS. OF N. C.

The Catholic laity have now a complete and authoritative translation of the Latin text of the sublime prayers used by the Church in the administration of the Sacraments, the celebration of the Holy Sacrifice of the Mass, the Vesper Service, the devotion to the Eucharistic God, etc. They cannot fail to grow in solid Catholic piety, when reading attentively and reverently the beautiful word-forms consecrated by the ecclesiastical usage of centuries, and endorsed for ages by the living authority of God's Church.

CAMILLUS PAUL MAES, BISHOP OF COVINGTON.

From a brief examination I find it to be mainly a compilation from the Missal, Breviary, and Ritual. It is therefore, not only a book of devotion, but also a book of instruction which is beyond all question orthodox. In my humble opinion it will prove a great blessing to the laity, as, besides supplying them with only authorized prayers and devotions, it will enable them to have a thorough understanding of the Sacraments and the ceremonies of the Church. The book has a very handsome appearance. Yours faithfully,

RICHARD SCANNELL, BISHOP OF CONCORDIA.

It is well gotten up, elegant, and, as far as I can judge, according to the order of the Third Plenary Council of Baltimore. Your devoted servant,

ÆGIDIUS JUNGER, BISHOP OF NESQUALLY.

I think this Manual satisfies all demands and will be appreciated by the people. I remain sincerely yours in Xt,

JOHN J. HENNESSY, BISHOP OF WICHITA.

There is in it nothing superfluous and nothing wanting. What is in it, being chosen chiefly from the Missal, Breviary, and Ritual, is the very best. Its form is attractive and convenient. Sincerely yours in Xt,

HENRY JOSEPH RICHTER, BISHOP OF GRAND RAPIDS.

It is just what the last Council has promised, and it will undoubtedly do much good, not only as a prayer book for different occasions, but especially by leading the people to a better understanding of the ceremonies of the Church, enabling the reader to follow, in his own language, the priest in the performance of his sacred duties. The book should not be wanting in any Catholic household. Respectfully yours,

ADMINISTRATOR, DIOCESE GREEN BAY.

The New Prayer Book ordered by the Third Plenary Council.

338 THANKSGIVING AFTER COMMUNION.

Thine own the whole powers of my soul, my memory, my intellect, and all my will. All that I am, and all that I have, Thou hast bestowed upon me: therefore I give back all to Thee, and surrender it to be wholly governed by Thy sovereign will. Grant me but grace to love Thee alone, and I am rich enough and ask no more.

Here may be said the Tantum Ergo (p. 222), the Lauda Sion (p. 632), the Pange Lingua (p. 627), or any other Hymn in honor of the Blessed Sacrament.

A PRAYER (i)

*To which Pope Pius VII. has annexed a Plenary Indulgence, which all the faithful may obtain who, after having confessed their sins with contrition, and received the Holy Communion, shall devoutly recite it before an image or representation of Christ crucified.

Behold, O kind and most sweet Jesus, I cast myself upon my knees in Thy sight, and with the most fervent desire of my soul I pray and beseech Thee that Thou wouldst impress upon my heart lively sentiments of Faith, Hope, and Charity, with true repentance for my sins, and a firm desire of amendment, whilst with deep affection and grief of soul I ponder within myself and mentally contemplate Thy five most precious Wounds; having before my eyes that which David spake in prophecy: They have pierced my hands and feet; they have numbered all my bones.

* Add five Our Fathers and five Hail Marys, for the intentions of the Holy Father. (S. Cong. Indulg., July 31, 1858.)

To correct errors found in many Catholic Prayer Books this Manual was prepared, by order of the Third Plenary Council of Baltimore. It is endorsed by His Eminence Cardinal Gibbons and by the Most Rev. Archbishop Corrigan, of New York, who had special supervision of the work. Each page in proof-sheets was submitted to all the Bishops of the country and by them approved. Being the only Prayer Book having this high endorsement, it will take the place, as the Council intended it should, of the various Prayer Books heretofore used.

It is universally conceded that the Fathers of the late Council have in this book given to their people the best expression of Catholic devotion to be found in the English language.

DEVOTIONS FOR MASS. 123

The Creed.

Renew here your faith. All these things, which the Church proposes to your belief, are founded on God's own word, revealed in the Scriptures, announced by the prophets and the apostles, supported by miracles, confirmed by the martyrs, verified by the establishment of our faith, and obvious by the sanctity of our religion.

CREDO in unum Deum, Patrem omnipotentem, factorem cœli et terræ, visibilium omnium, et invisibilium. Et in

I BELIEVE in one God, the Father Almighty, maker of heaven and earth, of all things visible and invisible. And in one

(Fac-simile of type.)

A standard Catholic prayer book recommended for general use by the most Rev. The Archbishops of Baltimore, and the Right Rev. Bishops of the U. S., who composed the Seventh Provincial Council, held in Baltimore, May, 1849, and the National Council in May, 1852, as being the most COMPLETE, COMPREHENSIVE, and ACCURATE CATHOLIC PRAYER BOOK published in the United States.

The universal popularity of this Manual among the Rev. Clergy and the people of the country—which has steadily increased from its first appearance,—renders it needless to enlarge upon its merits here. Originally prepared for use of the Sisters of Charity, it became not only their ordinary manual, but that of many thousands of pious Catholics throughout the land. Since its adoption for general use, upwards of two hundred thousand copies have been sold, which fact evidences its standing among the faithful.

The many high eulogiums passed upon the book by the Archbishops and Bishops of the United States and Canada have all been sustained and repeated by the authorities of the Church.

Many devotions, not usually found in prayer books, have been included in this edition: such as The Way of the Cross, the prayers of Bona Mors, Meditations for every day in the year, The Scapular, The Living Rosary, The Month of May, etc., etc., making it complete, accurate and convenient.

MORNING PRAYERS. 13

Morning Prayers.

Awakening in the morning, say:

O MY God, my only good, the author of my being, and my last end; I give thee my heart. Praise, honor, and glory be to thee forever and ever. Amen.

Rising, say:

Epistles and Gospels Separate.

Size 3¾ × 2¾ inches.

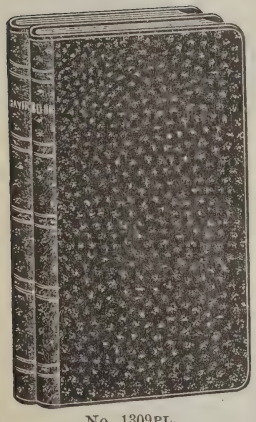
Containing 483 pages and measuring only ¾ of an inch in thickness.



No. 1309PL.

This cut shows about one-half the actual size of the book.

This well-known book in its present form (the Epistles and Gospels separate) has become, from a novelty a few years ago, one of the most popular of our series. The Prayers for church and home, written in the purest and most sympathetic style, appeal to the heart, making it a most valuable companion for the fervent. It is superbly printed on specially made paper and the greatest care has been taken in the selection of bindings, our aim being to please the cultured. For specimen of type, see page 19.

R. Quia tu es, Deus, fortitudo mea, quare me repulisti? Et quare tristis incedo, dum affligit me inimicus?

R. For thou, O God, art my strength: why hast thou cast me off? And why do I go sorrowful while the enemy afflicteth me?

P. Emitte lucem tuam, et veritatem tuam: ipsa me deduxerunt, et adduxerunt in montem

P. Send forth thy light and thy truth: they have conducted me and brought me to thy holy mount,

This line shows exact size of page.

The above fac-simile of page clearly demonstrates its purpose. It is a handy book, containing all the essential prayers for Church and home use, yet so compact that it can be carried without inconvenience in the upper vest-pocket. This new feature of adding the Epistles and Gospels, made possible through the courtesy of the Oxford Press (London) in selling us their world-renowned and incomparable India paper, famous for its thinness, color, and softness of touch, yet so opaque that the impression on one side does not show through when the other side is being read, will be appreciated by Catholics as it meets a long felt demand. The book, although from its title was first intended for men, has become most popular owing to its size, among both sexes.

The Prayer.

LORD Jesus Christ, Son of the living God, who, when thy passion drew near, wouldst for me, wretched sinner, fear and grow sad; grant that I may ever direct all my sorrows unto thee, the God of my heart: and thou, O Lord, in union of thy passion and sorrow, deign to assist me to bear them with patience, that by the merits of thy sufferings, they may be saving to me. Amen.

Size 4¼ × 2¾ inches.

THE IMITATION OF CHRIST has been familiar to the Christian world for upwards of four centuries, and translated into almost all languages, it has received the unqualified approbation of the learned and pious; even Fontenelle emphatically pronounced it the most excellent production that ever issued from the hand of man the Gospel being of divine origin, and it is still held in as high esteem by persons of every denomination as it was at any time since it came from the pen of its pious author.

THE

SECOND BOOK OF SAMUEL,

OTHERWISE CALLED THE SECOND BOOK OF KINGS.

This book relates the transactions from the death of Saul until the end of David's reign, being a history for the space of about forty-six years.

CHAP. I.

David mourneth for the death of Saul and Jonathan: he ordereth the man to be slain who pretended he had killed Saul.

NOW [x] it came to pass, after Saul was dead, that David returned from the slaughter of the Amalecites, and abode two days in Siceleg.

2 And on the third day, there appeared a man who came out of Saul's camp, with his garments rent, and dust strewed on his head: and when he came to David, he fell upon his face, and adored.

3 And David said to him: From whence comest thou? And he said to him: I am fled out of the camp of Israel.

4 And David said unto him: What is the matter that is come to pass? tell me. He said: The people are fled from the battle, and many of the people are fallen and dead: moreover Saul and Jonathan his son are slain.

5 And David said to the young man that told him: How knowest thou that Saul and Jonathan his son, are dead?

6 And the young man that told him, said: I came by chance upon mount Gelboe, and Saul leaned upon his spear: and the chariots and horsemen drew nigh unto him,

7 And looking behind him, and seeing me, he called me. And I answered, Here am I.

They are handsomely printed from new plates on extra fine paper, and bound in new and attractive styles.

"Of the one hundred and fifty poems embraced in this volume, there are many worthy of being read by all men, and all of them possess true poetic merit." Episcopal Register, Baltimore.

"Father Faber, though a Roman Catholic, was one of the sweetest of our religious poets, and his verse must endear itself to all who love our Lord Jesus Christ." The Christian Union, New York.

We have been frequently urged by many admirers of these great writers to publish an edition of their works in fine bindings suitable for private libraries. We offer this issue as in every way worthy of these noted authors.

The loss of a cheque caused loss of employment to the loser, anxiety to many, and separation of loved friends. That weakness may be sin, is shown by the character of Victor Raymond; that total abstinence is the only safe course is shown by the lives of Victor's father and Mr. Hearne.

Made Man, A. Sequel to "Story of Rasmus." 12mo, 308 pp. By Mrs. J. McNair Wright..... 1 25

Temperance is so fully in the field of politics that the youth should be trained for citizens who can make and maintain temperance laws, and we need to lead their minds into wide fields of thought. . . . The story of "Rasmus," in both its parts, shows us the possibilities that lie in a vast, neglected, and tempted class; lie in them, and are forever lost in them, through lack of righteous legislation and proper social principles! Rasmus shows us what might be—and what might be in such as he—the nation's gain. If we go to the slums and the police courts we shall see what is, and what is in him, the nation's enormous, irremediable loss.

The zeal of the few, combined with the ruin wrought by the saloons, at last opened the eyes of others, and the result was the formation of a Woman's Temperance Union, which did effectual work, and, aided by Blue-Ribbon workers, the saloons were finally driven out.

The peace, prosperity, and successful government of a mining community are largely due to the good example and wise counsels of the Superintendent, who prohibited all liquor selling and drinking, and who daily lived up to the precepts of the "Golden Rule." Indeed, strikes among his men were unknown. His boy "Nat" early adopted the same motto, and in his life we see the zealous student, the successful engineer, and at last the honored president of a rich mining company, the result of faithful adherence to duty and taking "one step at a time." One More Chance. 12mo, 598 pp. By Mrs. S. M. I. Henry. Paper cover, 50 cents; cloth..... 1 50

It treats of the principle of heredity—the old stone distillery and the little meeting-house of one hundred years ago sending their antagonistic influences down the generations in the same veins, bringing about that strange conflict of the spirit and the flesh, of purity and impurity, that is at the bottom of so much crime and insanity in this day. It shows, in the character of Maggie Dwight, that strong drink will do for a girl, in spite of physical beauty and many delicate instincts, just what it would do to a man.

Roy is a representative boy, containing many of the things good and grand. The story shows how time and his surroundings developed latent powers and opened promises of strong and efficient manhood, and also shows how he is defeated at every point by the love of his mother's wine, until sorrow, for which this life can find no room for any compensation, comes to the old homestead.

Jacob marrieth GENESIS, XXIX. Leah and Rachel.

15 And, behold, I am with thee, and will keep thee in all places whither thou goest, and will bring thee again into this land; for I will not leave thee, until I have done that which I have spoken to thee of.
16 ¶ And Jacob awaked out of his sleep, and he said, Surely the LORD is in this place; and I knew it not.
17 And he was afraid, and said, How dreadful is this place! this is none other but the house of God, and this is the gate of heaven.
18 And Jacob rose up early in the morning, and took the stone that he had put for his pillows, and set it up for a pillar, and poured oil upon the top of it.

12 And Jacob told Rachel that he was her father's brother, and that he was Rebekah's son: and she ran and told her father.
13 And it came to pass, when Laban heard the tidings of Jacob his sister's son, that he ran to meet him, and embraced him, and kissed him, and brought him to his house. And he told Laban all these things.
14 And Laban said to him, Surely thou art my bone and my flesh. And he abode with him the space of a month.
15 ¶ And Laban said unto Jacob, Because thou art my brother, shouldest thou therefore serve me for nought? tell me, what shall thy wages be?

Abraham's servant GENESIS, 24. sheweth his message.

LORD God of my master Abraham, who hath not left destitute my master of his mercy and his truth: I being in the way, the LORD led me to the house of my master's brethren.

28 And the damsel ran, and told them of her mother's house these things.

29 ¶ And Rebekah had a brother, and his name was Laban: and Laban ran out unto the man, unto the well.

30 And it came to pass, when he saw the earring and bracelets upon his sister's hands, and when he heard the words of Rebekah his sister, saying, Thus spake the man unto me; that he came unto the man; and, behold, he stood by the camels at the well.

31 And he said, Come in, thou blessed of the LORD; wherefore standest thou without? for I have prepared the house, and room for the camels.

32 ¶ And the man came into the house: and he ungirded his camels, and gave straw and provender for the camels, and water to wash his feet, and the men's feet that were with him.

33 And there was set meat before him to eat: but he said, I will not eat, until I have told mine errand. And he said, Speak on.

34 And he said, I am Abraham's

40 And he said unto me, The LORD, before whom I walk, will send his angel with thee, and prosper thy way; and thou shalt take a wife for my son of my kindred, and of my father's house:

41 Then shalt thou be clear from this my oath, when thou comest to my kindred; and if they give not thee one, thou shalt be clear from my oath.

42 And I came this day unto the well, and said, O LORD God of my master Abraham, if now thou do prosper my way which I go:

43 Behold, I stand by the well of water; and it shall come to pass, that when the virgin cometh forth to draw water, and I say to her, Give me, I pray thee, a little water of thy pitcher to drink;

44 And she say to me, Both drink thou, and I will also draw for thy camels: let the same be the woman whom the LORD hath appointed out for my master's son.

45 And before I had done speaking in mine heart, behold, Rebekah came forth with her pitcher on her shoulder; and she went down unto the well, and drew water: and I said unto her, Let me drink, I pray thee.

46 And she made haste, and let down her pitcher from her shoulder, and said, Drink, and I will speakest, O Israel, My way is hid from the LORD, and my judgment is passed over from my God?

28 ¶ Hast thou not known? hast thou not heard, that the everlasting God, the LORD, the Creator of the ends of the earth, fainteth not, neither is weary? there is no searching of his understanding.
29 He giveth power to the faint; and to them that have no might he increaseth strength.
9 Thou whom I have taken from the ends of the earth, and called thee from the chief men thereof, and said unto thee, Thou art my servant; I have chosen thee, and not cast thee away.
10 ¶ Fear thou not; for I am with thee: be not dismayed; for I am thy God: I will strengthen thee; yea, I will help thee; yea, I will uphold thee with the right hand of my righteousness.

David prayeth God to hear him. PSALMS. His complaint in sickness.

how long will ye love vanity, and seek after leasing? Selah.

3 But know that the LORD hath set apart him that is godly for himself: the LORD will hear when I call unto him.

4 Stand in awe, and sin not: commune with your own heart upon your bed, and be still. Selah.

5 Offer the sacrifices of righteousness, and put your trust in the LORD.

6 There be many that say, Who will shew us any good? LORD,

8 Lead me, O LORD, in thy righteousness because of mine enemies; make thy way straight before my face.

9 For there is no faithfulness in their mouth; their inward part is very wickedness; their throat is an open sepulchre; they flatter with their tongue.

10 Destroy thou them, O God; let them fall by their own counsels; cast them out in the multitude of their transgressions; for they have rebelled against thee.

7 Therefore shall all hands be faint, and every man's heart shall melt:

8 And they shall be afraid: pangs and sorrows shall take hold of them; they shall be in pain as a woman that travaileth: they shall be amazed one at another; their faces shall be as flames.

9 Behold, the day of the LORD comdoms, the beauty of the Chaldees' excellency, shall be as when God overthrew Sodom and Gomorrah.

20 It shall never be inhabited, neither shall it be dwelt in from generation to generation: neither shall the Arabian pitch tent there; neither shall the shepherds make their fold there.

God's pity towards Israel. JUDGES, III. Othniel delivereth Israel.

Before CHRIST cir. 1426.

arose another generation after them, which [c] knew not the LORD, nor yet the works which he had done for Israel.

11 ¶ And the children of Israel did evil in the sight of the LORD, and served Baalim:

12 And they [p] forsook the LORD God of their fathers, which brought them out of the land of Egypt, and followed [q] other gods, of the gods of the people that were round about them, and [r] bowed themselves unto them, and provoked the LORD to anger.

13 And they forsook the LORD, [s] and served Baal and Ashtaroth.

14 ¶ [t] And the anger of the LORD was hot against Israel, and he [u] delivered them into the hands of spoilers that spoiled them, and [x] he sold them into the hands of their enemies round about, so that they [y] could not any longer stand before their enemies.

15 Whithersoever they went out, the hand of the LORD was against them for evil, as the LORD had said, and [z] as the LORD had sworn unto them: and they were greatly distressed.

hastily; neither delivered he them into the hand of Joshua.

CHAPTER III.

1 The nations which were left to prove Israel. 6 By communion with them they commit idolatry. 8 Othniel delivereth them from Chushan-rishathaim. 12 Ehud from Eglon. 31 Shamgar from the Philistines.

NOW these are [a] the nations which the LORD left, to prove Israel by them, even as many of Israel as had not known all the wars of Canaan;

2 Only that the generations of the children of Israel might know, to teach them war, at the least such as before knew nothing thereof;

3 Namely, [b] five lords of the Philistines, and all the Canaanites, and the Sidonians, and the Hivites that dwelt in mount Lebanon, from mount Baal-hermon unto the entering in of Hamath.

4 [c] And they were to prove Israel by them, to know whether they would hearken unto the commandments of the LORD, which he commanded their fathers by the hand of Moses.

Judgments upon the land. ISAIAH, XXV. The prophet praiseth God.

Before CHRIST cir. 712.

3 The land shall be utterly emptied, and utterly spoiled: for the LORD hath spoken this word.

4 The earth mourneth and fadeth away, the world languisheth and fadeth away, [2] the haughty people of the earth do languish.

5 [c] The earth also is defiled under the inhabitants thereof; because they have transgressed the laws, changed the ordinance, broken the everlasting covenant.

6 Therefore hath [d] the curse devoured the earth, and they that dwell therein are desolate: therefore the inhabitants of the earth are burned, and few men left.

7 [e] The new wine mourneth, the vine languisheth, all the merryhearted do sigh.

8 The mirth [f] of tabrets ceaseth, the noise of them that rejoice endeth, transgression thereof shall be heavy upon it; and it shall fall, and not rise again.

21 And it shall come to pass in that day, that the LORD shall [2] punish the host of the high ones that are on high, [F] and the kings of the earth upon the earth.

22 And they shall be gathered together, [3] as prisoners are gathered in the [4] pit, and shall be shut up in the prison, and after many days shall they be [5] visited.

23 Then the [g] moon shall be confounded, and the sun ashamed, when the LORD of hosts shall [r] reign in [s] mount Zion, and in Jerusalem, and [6] before his ancients gloriously.

THE
ACTS OF THE APOSTLES.

CHAPTER 1.

THE former treatise have I made, O Theophilus, of all that Jesus began both to do and teach,
2 Until the day in which he was taken up, after that he through the Holy Ghost had given commandments unto the apostles whom he had chosen:
3 To whom also he shewed himself alive after his passion by many infallible proofs, being seen of them forty days, and speaking of the things pertaining to the kingdom of God:
4 And, being assembled together with them, commanded them that they should not depart from Jerusalem, but wait for the promise of the Father, which, saith he, ye have heard of me.
5 For John truly baptized with water; but ye shall be baptized with the Holy Ghost not many days hence.
6 When they therefore were come together, they asked of him, saying, Lord, wilt thou at this time restore again the kingdom to Israel?
7 And he said unto them, It is not for you to know the times or the seasons, which the Father hath put in his own power.
8 But ye shall receive power, after that the Holy Ghost is come upon you: and ye shall be witnesses unto me both in Jerusalem, and in all Judæa, and in Samaria, and unto the uttermost part of the earth.
9 And when he had spoken these things, while they beheld, he was taken up; and a cloud received him out of their sight.
10 And while they looked stedfastly toward heaven as he went up, behold, two men stood by them in white apparel;

Jesus unto him, That thou doest, do quickly.
28 Now no man at the table knew for what intent he spake this unto him.

REVELATION XVI.

8 And the temple was filled with smoke from the glory of God, and from his power; and no man was able to enter into the temple, till the seven plagues of the seven angels were fulfilled.

CHAPTER XVI.

2 The angels pour out their vials full of wrath. 6 The plagues that follow thereupon. 15 Christ cometh as a thief. Blessed are they that watch.

AND I heard a great voice out of the temple saying to the seven angels, Go your ways, and pour out the vials of the wrath of God upon the earth.

2 And the first went, and poured out his vial upon the earth: and there fell a noisome and grievous sore upon the men which had the mark of the beast, and upon them which worshipped his image.

3 And the second angel poured out his vial upon the sea: and it became as the blood of a dead man: and every living soul died in the sea.

4 And the third angel poured out his vial upon the rivers and fountains of waters; and they became blood.

5 And I heard the angel of the waters say, Thou art righteous, O Lord, which art, and wast, and shalt be, because thou hast judged thus.

6 For they have shed the blood of saints and prophets, and thou hast given them blood to drink: for they are worthy.

7 And I heard another out of the altar say, Even so, Lord God Almighty, true and righteous are thy judgments.

8 And the fourth angel poured out his vial upon the sun; and power was given unto him to scorch men with fire.

9 And men were scorched with great heat, and blasphemed the name of God, which hath power over these plagues: and they repented not to give him glory.

10 And the fifth angel poured out his vial upon the

DAY 11. THE PSALTER.

Evening Prayer.

PSALM 59. Eripe me de inimicis.

DELIVER me from mine enemies, O God: defend me from them that rise up against me.
2 O deliver me from the wicked doers: and save me from the blood-thirsty men.
3 For lo, they lie waiting for my soul: the mighty men are gathered against me, without any offence or fault of me, O LORD.
4 They run and prepare themselves without my fault: arise thou therefore to help me, and behold.
5 Stand up, O LORD God of hosts, thou God of Israel, to visit all the heathen: and be not merciful unto them that offend of malicious wickedness.
6 They go to and fro in the evening: they grin like a dog, and run about through the city.
7 Behold, they speak with their mouth, and swords are in their lips: for who doth hear?
8 But thou, O LORD, shalt have them in derision: and thou shalt laugh all the heathen to scorn.
9 My strength will I ascribe unto thee: for thou art the God of my refuge.
10 God showeth me his goodness plenteously:

On Thee, my Saviour and my God;

Fixed on thy God, thy Saviour, rest;
Who with the world would grieve to part
When called on angels' food to feast?

SING, with all the sons of glory,
Sing the resurrection-song!

Soon the night of time shall cease,
And, in God's own likeness waking,
Man shall know eternal peace.

"The death of the lady who has been so long known to the world as 'A. L. O. E.' will snap, as it were, a link with the past to thousands of men and women over the whole English-speaking world. . . . In looking through a list of her books, one is struck by the enormous popularity which some of them have enjoyed, and by the genuine literary beauties which many of them display. 'Precepts in Practice,' 'Idols in the Heart,' 'The Young Pilgrim,'—these titles serve to indicate the character of much of her work, although, perhaps, 'Claudia' and 'The Lady of Provence' were even more successful as good stories."

Each year greater stress is being laid upon the importance of interesting children in the common things around them. In response to the growing demand for very simple books on Botany, we have issued a series of five dainty little volumes of Rambles after Wild Flowers. They are intended to awaken in their readers a love for and an interest in common wild flowers.

"In these bright and pleasant pages the children are taken by the hand by 'Uncle Matt'—a character cheerily and sympathetically impersonated by Dr. Cooke—and led on various rambles around the neighborhood of the home or holiday centre, however it may be imagined, in search of wild flowers. These when found are made a note of, with picture and in merry chat; and so, besides getting a good time generally, the young people pick up a great deal of elementary knowledge of botany."—School Board Chronicle.

In Taunton Town. A Story of the Rebellion of James, Duke of Monmouth, in 1685, with portrait. 8vo, pp. 502, cloth extra.....$1.75

Though the incidents of that hapless adventure have often been woven into fiction, that has never been more successfully done than in the present tale. From the first chapter, the reader's interest is seized and held firmly by the pictures it contains of life in the villages of Somersetshire.

While the pictures of camp and battlefield appeal to boyish readers, the story of the love of Viscount Vere and his bride, and of the devotion of her spirited friend Mistress Mary Bridges, cannot fail to charm girls. The minor characters, such as the hateful Rev. Nicholas Blewer and the garrulous Mother Whale, are life-like and historically true.

At the age of twenty, the necessity for concealment being removed, she is taken from a country rectory where she has spent her childhood. Arriving at the house of her father, who is a coalmaster in the north of England, she suddenly finds herself "sprung upon" a family of three brothers and five sisters, who were till then utterly ignorant of her existence.

Wright, William, D.D.

An Account of Palmyra and Zenobia, with Travels and Adventures in Bashan and the Desert. With numerous full-page illustrations, small cuts, maps, and a copious index. 8vo, pp. 394. Extra cloth, gilt top, bevelled edges $2.50*

"Palmyra is chiefly known for its ruins and its traditions of Zenobia's illustrious reign. To both of these Dr. Wright does more justice than is commonly expected from travellers' tales. He has occupied himself with original research and the study of inscriptions, so that his narrative has a very different style from that of the vapid, second-hand and tenth-rate literature of the majority of unprofessional travellers. Much entertainment as well as much information may be found in this modest volume."—New York Times, Sept. 15, 1895.

"A stirring narrative by Dr. William Wright. Besides a brief history of the ancient cities, with a glance at the architecture, art, and industries of their people, the author tells us how they look to-day. The volume is handsomely illustrated, and the ruins in the two great cities are portrayed in a series of artistic engravings that tell a story in themselves."—Commercial Advertiser, Sept. 11, 1895.

"A vivid picture of the Palmyra of the present day. . . . As the book was written for the most part among the scenes which it describes, its narratives have a vividness and local coloring that are not found among many works of travel. . . . His book is well illustrated and the narrative full of movement and life."—Brooklyn Eagle, Sept. 16, 1895.

"Its graphic, concise descriptions of famous places now in ruins and its clear pen-pictures of the people that live and wander over these lands, are both entertaining and profitable reading."—The Chicago Inter-Ocean, Sept. 14, 1895.

"This book might be placed midway between the author's two earlier books. . . . Most of the interest in Palmyra is interest in Zenobia, its heroic queen. . . . Its site is crowded with wonderful architectural remains.

"In the account of his journey . . . and subsequent explorations . . . there is the double interest of careful and exact description of the country and its people, and the lively play of Irish humor which runs over the narrative.

"The illustrations are unusually good . . . but the text is even more graphic, and not least in describing woman's life and ways in Syria."—Sunday-School Times, March 21, 1896.

"Thos. Nelson & Sons have set a pace that will test American authors and publishers to their utmost. There is not to be found for the money in any department of literature such beautiful books as these, from the illustrative standpoint at least. Little people do like colors, and they have grown beyond their school days before they cease to find a peculiar claim in an exquisite picture where effect is heightened by the artistic touch of color. It should not be understood that this exceptional attraction is the only merit of this series, which abounds in modern ideas, skilfully applied. The selections are interesting to children, are well guarded, are pleasingly varied, and are provided with many aids to the child and suggestions to the teacher."—Journal of Education.

Class Teaching of Writing from the blackboard, combined with copying of headlines by the pupils, has long been desired.

In the present systems of writing this has been impossible. Where scholars have commenced copy books at different times, or have had an unequal number of attendances, they are, under the present systems, writing on different pages, and therefore copying different headlines. In the Royal Copy Book is solved the problem of simultaneous instruction in writing, and class teaching of writing is now made easy for all schools.

By using the Royal Copy Books, the whole class can always copy the same headline at the same time. This great advantage has been attained by a novel arrangement—the headlines being cut away from the body of the copy book, but firmly stitched in the same cover. The headline above each page can thus be changed as often as is desired, and in this way the copying by the scholars of their own writing instead of the headlines will be completely obviated.

The Royal Star Copy Books. The great success of the Royal Copy Books (with cut headlines) proves that they have fulfilled their aim of enabling teachers to combine the simultaneous class-teaching of writing with the use of engraved headlines in the style of penmanship best suited for clerks in the Civil Service and in Business Offices. In response to requests from teachers who have not time for simultaneous class-teaching of writing, but who wish to introduce the style of penmanship of the Royal Copy Books, the publishers are now issuing the Royal Star Copy Books with two headlines on each page. Ten books in the series. Per dozen $1.00*

1. Initiatory Short Letters and Words.
2. Long Letters and Short Words.
3. Texts—Capitals, Words and Sentences.

The Royal Upright Copy Books. Nine books in the series. Per dozen $1.00*

The series is just issued, and will be found to meet all the requirements of a truly vertical style of penmanship. Care has been taken to obtain the maximum fluency, simplicity, and legibility, and no pains have been spared by which the neatness or the workmanship of these books could be improved.

With cut-away headlines for simultaneous instruction.

"'The Royal Upright' has the copy cut from the page so that any copy can be used for any page. This meets all classes and conditions of conservatives and cranks, who can have a whole page given to one copy, or they can have a different copy on every line. 'The Royal Copy Books' (nineteen parts) is much like the 'Upright,' but simply magnifies the grading by doubling the number of books in the series."—Journal of Education.

THE LURE OF FAME

By CLIVE HOLLAND

Author of "My Japanese Wife," etc., etc.

With a Drawing and Decoration by GEORGE WHARTON EDWARDS

Large 16mo, square, handsomely embossed cover, $1.00

CHARLES DEXTER ALLEN writes as follows in the Hartford Post:

"Before one gets to the story itself, he must stop and admire the handsome setting the book has received. Bound in dark blue, with a bold cover design in gold, it has an especially designed title page by George Wharton Edwards, and an excellent frontispiece by the same artist. Its title, 'The Lure of Fame,' will suggest something of the thread of the story, but one is not thereby prepared for so tender and sympathetic a picture as those pages reveal, or so close an analysis of human feelings and experiences."

OTHER REVIEWS

"All is done in the simplest fashion, and one lays the book down with a renewed sense of the great truth that love and duty, where one is, gives most happiness here on earth, and that the 'lure of fame' leads one on to say of life, with a breaking heart, 'All is vanity and vexation of spirit.'—The Living Church, Chicago.

"Mr. Holland has written a prose idyl, charming as it is pathetic. The diction is very sweet in places; the spirit throughout gentle, pure, and elevated."—The Commercial Advertiser, New York.

It is a book to be read and enjoyed for the story, and for the story alone, yet an afterthought will recur again and again to readers who have 'hearts to feel.'"—Church Standard, Philadelphia.

"'The Lure of Fame' has something yet stronger in it than its title—itself both good and descriptive—and this something stronger is its reserve power, its delicate restraint in a day when restraint is no longer a virtue in the ethics of a clique of age-end writers."—North American, Philadelphia.

"It is an excellent story for young people to read, as it is devoid of sensationalism and emphasizes a valuable lesson without being didactic."—The Beacon, Boston.

THE XIth COMMANDMENT

By HALLIWELL SUTCLIFFE

Handsomely Bound in Cloth, $1.25

The London Bookseller comments as follows:

"Though we feel sure that the author is expressing some moral or other, we may perhaps leave this side of his work and content ourselves with enjoying a thoroughly vigorous and well-worked-out story, in which the characterization is, perhaps, the strongest part of an excellent whole. The strange tale of Mr. Daneholme, with the stranger and hardly deserved peacefulness of its close, the refreshingly unconventional personality of the Curate, and the equally unconventional Bishop. The love episode of Lorimer and Beatrice Daneholme, the successful candidature for parliament of Ralph Haselgrave, are all set forth with a sympathetic, almost a magnetic touch, so that the reader is brought at once into close contact with them all and feels that they must be real and living persons. Indeed, it is this penetrating feeling of actuality throughout which gives the book its distinctive charm, and places it decidedly above the ordinary novel of the season.

OTHER REVIEWS

"Full of deep thought, tempered with a bright appreciation of the ridiculous and invested with delicate sarcasm, is the new novel of Halliwell Sutcliffe, called 'The XIth Commandment.' Mr. Sutcliffe's theme is the diplomatic attitude of a North-Country vicar in the Church of England, who seeks to maintain an equilibrium in his ministrations to the rich and poor in his parish, while favoring the rich. In striking contrast to this attitude, the work of a young curate, sincere, broadminded and convincing, is refreshingly shown. A pretty and ingenious love story, in which the curate has a part, runs its length through the book and nicely balances the religious discussion." —Buffalo Express.

"It is full of stress and emphasis, vibrant and thrilling in places, and, for a novel of its character, it holds the interest of the reader to a surprising degree."—Commercial Advertiser," New York.

"As the story progresses one's interest grows continually and the book may be called not merely readable but genuinely interesting." —Hartford Post.

THE COPSFORD MYSTERY

Or, Is He The Man?

By W. CLARK RUSSELL

Author of "The Wreck of the Grosvenor," "An Ocean Free Lance," "A Sea Queen," etc.

Illustrated by A. BURNHAM SHUTE

12mo, cloth, superbly bound, $1.25; paper, 50 cents.

"The Copsford Mystery; or, Is He the Man?" is by W. Clark Russell, whose name at once suggests rolling billows and dashing spray. But this is not a sea tale and is the only story not of the sea that he has written. Save in the first chapter, when we are introduced to a girl who is in the habit of rowing, off Broadstairs, and who gets carried out to sea by the tide, and is rescued by a dark-browed, sun-burnt, but handsome man, there is nothing of the sea in it. She is a high-strung, strong-willed girl. It is a case of love at first sight, and they marry. Then there is more and more trouble, ending in a mystery, and finally a tragedy The construction of the story is more like Doyle than Russell, but it resembles the latter's sea stories in its careful attention to detail. There is also careful delineation of character. In an introduction is an interesting sketch of Russell and his writings, and the book has full-page illustrations by A. Burnham Shute and others.

UNIFORM WITH THE ABOVE

In its Seventh Thousand

AN OCEAN FREE LANCE

By W. CLARK RUSSELL

Illustrated by HARRY L. V. PARKHURST

12mo, cloth, $1.25; paper, 50 cents.

This dashing romance of the sea is held by some readers to contain Mr. Russell's best work. In it will be found the oft-quoted description of a naval engagement.

A STABLE FOR NIGHTMARES

OR, WEIRD TALES

BY J. SHERIDAN LE FANU

Author of "Uncle Silas," "House by the Churchyard," etc."

SIR CHARLES YOUNG, BART.

AND OTHERS

Bound in Brimstone Yellow Cloth, and appropriately illustrated, 75 cts.

The Commercial Advertiser, New York, under the title of "A Revel in Spookdom," writes in part as follows:

"What is there better for a real, clammy, irresponsible thrill than a volume of ghost stories? You open the book anywhere and the breath of chilly, graveyard air, that comes from the pages, prepares you at once for the refreshing horrors you are about to enjoy. At least that was my experience when I opened 'A Stable for Nightmares,' by J. Sheridan Le Fanu. The cover is of the hue of cold 'Welsh rabbit,' suggestive of awful indigestion and gaunt nightmares that serve to make any ghost stories probable. The tales are of various complexions, but all imbued with the 'pobbiness' of new-made corpses that is so useful an element in making effective preternatural narratives. . . . Every one of the eleven stories is a splendid example of weird-ness. . . . . If you want ghost stories fresh from the charnel house, buy this book for 75 cents and you will find it a profitable investment."

OTHER REVIEWS

"There is a horrible fascination for some of us in a book of ghost stories. We have laid down J. Sheridan Le Fanu's "A Stable for Nightmares" half a dozen times, only to take it up again and read on. It will not let us rest, but draws us on until, when we have read that most ghastly of all the stories, 'What was it?' we close it with a kind of relief. . . . Even its title is unlike any other, and the frontispiece of an old ruined castle with its darksome moat and the rising moon shining through a rift of clouds, gives it a ghostly beginning . . . . Lovers of such stories will revel in this new book, and not one of the collection will prove a disappointment."—Boston Times.

Nothing more delightfully horrible, more perfectly adapted to the raising of goose flesh and the sending of cold shivers down the spine, has appeared in recent literature."—The Journal, New York.

"It is a book to read in the broad daylight and not at night alone, and absorbed."—Hartford Post.

"Those who have a fancy for supernatural thrills, may find eleven distinct and eminently satisfactory ones in this volume."—Detroit Free Press.

UNDER SEALED ORDERS

By GRANT ALLEN

Author of "The Woman Who Did," "The Great Taboo," "Dumaresq's Daughter," etc.

12mo, paper, handsomely illustrated, 50 cents; cloth, $1.25

The Literary World, of London, comments as follows:

"The book is, of course, very well written. The characters are well drawn, and some of them very charming; and the touches of foreign life in Morocco and Russia have the picturesqueness and accuracy one would expect from a man who, in his scientific writings, has appealed to Darwin and Herbert Spencer with his ability, and to thousands of readers with his readability."

OTHER REVIEWS

"'Under Sealed Orders' is a first-class story of adventure, and as it is written by a man of real intelligence and wide knowledge, it possesses qualities which lift it above the ordinary story of its class. . . . . It is full of incident, of plot and counterplot. There is plenty of love in it, too. In short, Mr. Allen has given us another thoroughly good tale of action and plot, such as we have often had from him before."—Speaker, London.

"The reader need not fear to find anything but very capital entertainment in 'Under Sealed Orders.' It is one of its author's most interesting stories. For a story which is bright and readable all through, much thanks."—Spectator, London.

"Like all that Mr. Grant Allen writes, the book is packed full of knowledge of men and manners. . . . . A striking story, full of moving incident and charming people one is glad to have met."—Star, London.

"The idea . . . . . is thoroughly original, and carried out with striking force and power. . . . . The story is strong throughout, managed with care and thought and delicate purpose which are not the rule among the novelists of the present day, and growing stronger and deeper as it reaches its close."—Guardian, Manchester.

"'Under Sealed Orders' is written on robust, breezy, old-fashioned lines of exciting incident and romantic adventure . . . . full of the healthy zest of life. . . . In sheer strength of style, 'Under Sealed Orders' reaches a level of vivid and clever expression not common in the majority of novels."—Leeds Mercury, London.

SEVEN FROZEN SAILORS

By GEORGE MANVILLE FENN

Assisted by COMPTON READE, F. ARCHER, and others

Illustrated by A. BURNHAM SHUTE

Square 16mo, cloth, 75 cents

The Detroit Free Press reviews this work as follows:

"George Manville Fenn furnishes a rousing romance of the sea in 'Seven Frozen Sailors,' which has a Munchausen-like flavor that is decidedly entertaining in its copious drafts upon our credulity. Captain Cookson, a crew of jolly tars, and the fat owner of a stanch steamer who 'trod her decks like an active tub,' set sail for the North Pole. Their first adventure is a hair-lifting one. They sail over the submerged portion of an iceberg, are lifted upon it as it rolled over and left two hundred feet in the air, perched on an even keel in a narrow V-shaped valley running steeply down to the sea. Four days they stay high and dry on the top of the berg, then the melting ice releases the vessel, which launches itself down this inclined plane, and, after plunging down a sheer descent of forty feet darted into the depth of the ocean to emerge like a diving bird half a mile astern of the berg, a little wet, to be sure, but quite uninjured. For the first chapter this is really very good. Arrived at the Polar Zone they encounter cold that freezes quicksilver into bullets, with which they kill bears, and here chop the first frozen sailor out of his icy overcoat, thaw him out and he spins a yarn about his adventures with Lascars in 'The Bay of Biscay, O,' and is then resolved into his original constituents—the residue consisting of a rusty knife and a tobacco box—empty, of course. The other frozen sailors, who are conveniently at hand waiting to be chopped out, are of differing nationalities, and often telling a characteristic story of their careers, make exit in the fashion of the first."

OTHER REVIEWS

"'Seven Frozen Sailors' is certainly a title possessing enough originality to arouse one's curiosity. The idea is unique, and the seven stories, each by a different author, form an interesting mosaic of imaginative literature. . . . The reading public seems to crave something new, and here is a volume, not cumbersome, but of modest size, that will, no doubt, prove attractive."—Every Saturday, Elgin, Ill.

"The old saying, 'Too many cooks spoil the broth,' does not hold true in this instance, for the little book is really enjoyable."—Boston Transcript.

NEPHELÉ

By FRANCIS WILLIAM BOURDILLON

(To be published September 1st)

12mo, cloth, artistically bound, $1.00

Extract from a page review in The Spectator, London:

"Nephelé," by the author of one of the most lovely and also—which is singular—one of the most popular of the little songs of the present generation, is a romance of cloudland, the cloudland of mystical musical sympathies. . . . . It is a very exciting little romance. . . . . Nephelé is a real woman and not a mere cloud lit up by the prismatic rays of dawn or sunset, and the hero is a real man, though they meet for the first time, without any previous knowledge of each other, in that world of trance and musical mystery which the modern world has spoiled for all human purposes by giving it the pedantic name of telepathic feeling. . . . It is not only a very mystical, but, as it ultimately proves, a very tragic acquaintance, as it cuts across all the strong natural ties of happy human love, and enmeshes two human beings, whose lots are not otherwise connected, in the bonds of a spiritual tie which is fatal to one of them and full of mysterious pain as well as mysterious rapture for both. . . . Mr. Bourdillon knows how to make a meeting in the spirit read as real and impressive as a meeting in the flesh, and how to elaborate his conception so as to make it seem a true deed of destiny, and of that kind of destiny to which the Greek gave the name—a result of imperious necessity, breaking ruthlessly through all the more natural and humble attractions of human life, and impressing the high, and we may almost say bleak, rapture of tragedy on lives that might have seemed prepared for sweet and innocent delight. . . . It is in the region of music, the mystical region of music, that the origin of this simple tragedy is laid, and that the superhuman interference which breaks one tender human tie without substituting another, takes place. We have no means of saying whether the event upon which the story is founded—the spiritual attraction between two minds absolutely unknown to each other—through a kind of musical inspiration—be possible or not. What scientific men in their pedantic way call telepathy, is certainly a reality, but whether it could accomplish such wonders as this seems to us, we do not know. Yet Mr. Bourdillon has told his story with a power that inclines one to believe in its possibility. . . . Mr. Bourdillon believes in the higher meaning and significance of music with a faith that is almost spiritual, and manages to engrave his conviction on even the the least musical of his readers.

NEW AMSTERDAM BOOK COMPANY'S LIST

POLITICAL PARTIES IN THE UNITED STATES

THEIR HISTORY AND INFLUENCE

1789-1896

By J. HARRIS PATTON, M.A., Ph. D.

Author of "Four Hundred Years of American History," "Natural Resources of the United States," "Political Economy for American Youth," etc., etc.

12mo, cloth, $1.25

The American Economist reviews the book as follows:

"This book appears very opportunely, as at this time of unusual depression in business affairs, American citizens, especially the younger portion, are earnestly inquiring about the respective policies of these political parties that have hitherto, and are now managing the affairs of the general government. It traces in a concise manner the origin of these parties, and gives the salient points of their characteristics and what has been the outcome of their respective policies on the great interests of the nation. These interests include its numerous and varied industries, as well as its commercial and financial affairs. Notice is also taken of measures—though bitterly opposed—that were adopted by Congress and which in their effects have conferred immense benefits upon the people at large, and added to their general comfort. The book refers to the authorities for its historical statements in order that the reader may verify them; it also presents many facts and incidents that have been forgotten or overlooked."

OTHER REVIEWS

"Dr. Patton, who is well known as the author of 'Four Hundred Years of American History,' is well equipped to treat the subject that gives the title to this, his latest book. He has never held office, and he declares that his only motive here has been to direct the attention of the intelligent and thoughtful to the different historical phases in our political life and national policy—foreign and domestic. The book is divided into fifty-two sections, each treating of a different phase, while the last three pages form a summary of the author's conclusions."—Denver Times.

"As a rule political histories are too dry to invite general reading. In Mr. J. Harris Patton's 'Political Parties in the United States,' we have a work written in a simple, almost conversational style according to an analytical method and embodying a vast deal of information. . . . . Its convenience as a compact and serviceable book of reference cannot be gainsaid by any one."—Commercial Advertiser, New York.

THE BABYLONIAN TALMUD

ENGLISH TRANSLATION

Original text Edited, Formulated and Punctuated by

MICHAEL L. RODKINSON

Revised and Corrected by

THE REV. DR. ISAAC M. WISE

President Hebrew Union College, Cincinnati, Ohio

IN TEN ENGLISH AND FOUR HEBREW VOLUMES

Sold by subscription only

The NEW AMSTERDAM BOOK COMPANY have much pleasure in announcing the immediate issue by them, in quarterly instalments, of an entirely new and scholarly translation, by one of the greatest modern Talmudists, of the corrected text of the BABYLONIAN TALMUD—that vast, ancient repository (consisting both of Mishna and Gemara) of ethical, legal, and ceremonial doctrine.

The importance of this announcement, alike to Jewish and non-Jewish scholars, will be appreciated by those who know, not only what incomparable value is placed upon the Talmud, as a storehouse of rabbinical Judaism, but what the difficulties are in making, for the first time, an exhaustive, systematic, and philologically accurate text of this great literary monument of Jewish thought and mind. For more than twelve hundred years the Talmud, as is well known, has baffled all attempts at adequate translation, and has thus practically remained, for the general reader at least, an unenlightening, if not an entirely sealed book. In this new and unique translation of Dr. Rodkinson's, its meshes are now about to be unravelled, and the work made accessible to all by the illuminating editorship of a great scholar.

In referring to the editor and his mammoth undertaking, the publishers are gratified in being able to announce to would-be subscribers to the new edition of the Babylonian Talmud that the work has already received the commendation of many eminent Jewish and Christian scholars, and that portions of the book, so far submitted for criticism, have been warmly endorsed and highly praised by competent critics. Some years ago, when the initial prospectus was issued, the late Dr. Landau, Chief Rabbi of Dresden and Saxony, referred in a very flattering letter to the method and plan of the work, and recommended it to all interested in ancient literature. Professor Lazarus, of Berlin, also endorsed it. Equally gratifying was the reception accorded recently to the first tract, ROSH HASHANAH, by numerous European and American divines and prominent scholars. A further guarantee of the high character and worth of Dr. Rodkinson's undertaking appears on the title page, which bears the worthy name of Dr. Wise, the venerable President of the Hebrew Union College, and a scholar of European as well as American repute.

The publishers may be permitted to add, as a further assurance of the high value of the forthcoming work, a word or two of Dr. Rodkinson's earlier enterprises, which have received the warmest approval of scholars and critics on both continents. Among his twenty-two published theological works in Hebrew, German and English, is also embraced a "History of Amulets, Charms, and Talismans," which, in addition to the very favorable reception by the press, was commended by Professor Toy, of Harvard, and by Professor Harper, of the University of Chicago, and others. The author's "Ursprung und Entwickelung des Phylacterien Ritus bei den Juden," on its appearing, twelve years ago, was also heartily welcomed and commended by the Jewish Chronicle and Jewish World, of London; by La Revue des Études Juives, of Paris; by the Allgemeine Zeitung des Judenthums, Magdeburger Wochenschrift, Reformer, Monatschrift, Ungarischer Israelit, and Voshod, of Germany, Austria, and Russia; and by the American Israelite, and Deborah, of Cincinnati, as well as by some of the critical journals of Italy. Commendatory letters have also been received by the author from nearly fifty eminent European and American rabbis and professors, among whom may be mentioned the eminent Dr. A. Bernstein and Professors Lazarus and Stienthal.

"A stupendous work, almost as significant to the Jewish layman as the Bible to the Gentile, and of most engrossing interest to scholars of all denominations, is the translation of the Talmud. The Talmud is the ritual statute book, and last authority of the Jew. Seven millions of Jews adhere to its teachings. The reading of the Talmud in the original is beset with many and peculiar difficulties. Its repetitions, strange idioms, epigrammatic style, intricacies of thought and speech, and boundless range of subject, have made its perusal a puzzle. . . . . But Dr. Rodkinson has dared brave the meshes, and he has, with the success known by appreciative scholars, carefully unravelled and eliminated the problems of the work. He now presents the text consecutive and clear."—Washington Times.

"The importance of this work, alike to Jewish and non-Jewish scholars, will be appreciated by those who know not only what incomparable value is placed upon the Talmud as a storehouse of rabbinical Judaism, but what the difficulties are in making for the first time an exhaustive, systematic and philologically accurate text of this great literary monument of Jewish thought and mind."—Philadelphia Press.

"We are glad to have an English translation of a book which is at once the expression of the history of an important people, and the source of many of its modern customs. The task of the translator is not a light one, and has, indeed, only been rendered possible by the zeal and enthusiasm of specially-equipped Jewish scholars."—The Congregationalist, Boston.

"The value as a translation and a contribution to religious literature of this new edition of the Talmud cannot be too highly estimated."—Extract from a page notice in The Church Standard, Philadelphia.

"Beyond question the publishing of this work in this accessible form will prove of great value to many students of the Bible who do not read in the original tongue."—Hartford Post.

We scarcely need to point out that the undertaking now fairly launched, is one of unique importance.—New York Sun.

"A gigantic work long looked for and desired by scholars.—Episcopal Recorder.

A MAN AND A WOMAN. Faithfully presented by STANLEY WATERLOO. Cloth, $1.50. Vol. I. The Waterloo Series.

"This curious and uncommon book comes to us from America, and its author has a right to consider it a new materialization of American fiction. It is distinctively national, while quite unlike the work of the schools already familiar to us. . . . . The scenes between 'a man and a woman' are, many of them, treated with convincing freshness and contain much 'first-hand matter,' as the novelists call it. . . . . The book ends amid the unwilling tears of the reader who is angrily conscious that it is a false sentiment which makes him wet-eyed.—Daily Chronicle.

"One of the few American books ever written which has the soul of the New World in it. . . . . The book is an inspired interpretation of Nature. . . . . Mr. Waterloo's book must live because it stands for something, and that something is the greatest the Almighty has given us. . . . . It may be that England, failing to classify it, will have none of it, in spite of its extraordinary human interest, its humor and pathos, its passion and beauty."—Vanity Fair. [Page notice].

A DARN ON A BLUE STOCKING: A Story of To-day. By G. G. CHATTERTON. Cloth, $1.00.

"Distinctly good: a clean, clear-running little tale. . . . . We commend the courage and we commend also the story."—Literary World, February 7.

ROSALIND: OR, THE STORY OF THREE PARROTS. By E. M. HARRIS. With Frontispiece by E. D'AVIGDOR. Cloth, $1.25.

Favorably reviewed in over a score of journals. The Athenæum, devoting half a column to it (January 25), says: "The book is delicately tinged with the humor and sadness of child life and human existence generally, and is in every way an uncommon volume."

A BRIDE'S EXPERIMENT: A Story of Australian Bush Life. By CHARLES J. MANSFORD, author of "Shafts from an Eastern Quiver." Cloth, $1.50.

ELLA AND THE CHINA LADY. A Tibetan Fairy Tale. By SIBYL HEELEY. Large 16mo, handmade paper, bound in sateen and tied with silk ribbon. 75c.

A MYSTERY OF THE CORDILLERA: A Tale of Adventure in the Andes. By ARTHUR MASON BOURNE. With six illustrations. Crown 8vo, 312 pages, $1.25.

"Is an unusually good story of its kind. . . . . The characters meet unexpectedly, as they often do in life, adventure together for a few months of high and romantic excitement, and then part and pass on their several ways. . . . . The story, as a whole, is singularly free from the wearisomely forced detail of so many books of fictitious adventure, and should at least be popular with the young."—Manchester Guardian, October 1, 1895.

THE WAYS OF THE WORLD. By COTSFORD DICK. Imperial 16mo, bound in white and gold, $1.00.

The World says (May 13):—"The collection will be welcomed by all who appreciate wit set in deftly and gracefully turned verse. There is hardly a piece in the book that does not contain some little phrase or paraphrase which clings to the memory; for instance, to choose at random, the acclamation of gossip as 'Deification of the dread on dit!' the pity expressed for the ill-fated kid which 'here to-day is gant to-morrow;' or the wail of the descendant imbued with Ibsenite ideas:—

> When I want to be a saint,
> Says Hereditary Taint,
> 'Better do a little sinning'—and I do!"

EIGHTY YEARS AGO: OR, THE RECOLLECTIONS of an Old Army Doctor, his Adventures on the Fields of Quatre Bras and Waterloo and during the Occupation of Paris, 1815. By the late Dr. GIBNEY, of Cheltenham. Edited by his son, Major GIBNEY. Crown 8vo, $1.75.

NEPHELÉ. By F. W. BOURDILLON. Crown 8vo, $1.00.

Spectator (May 23)—"This little volume is more of a prose poem than of a mere tale, and yet it has all the interest, and much more than the vividness and simplicity of an exciting tale. . . . . Mr. Bourdillon has told his story with a power that inclines one to believe in its possibility." (Extract from page notice).

Scotsman (May 20).—"The tale, it will be seen, is one for musicians; but there is a mystic element in it that transcends the ordinary musical sense. It contains passages of brilliant description and analysis of mood and emotion; and is altogether a novel remarkable in its quality and execution."

Glasgow Herald (May 19)—"This is a very remarkable story of the Unseen, which Mr. Bourdillon has imagined like a poet and told like a believer. . . . His story is a beautiful prose poem, whose transcendental or allegorical meaning will come with especial force and charm to the skilled musician. But no one, whether musical or not, can read it without being thrilled through and through by its weird and delicate suggestions."

THE EVERY-DAY EDUCATOR;

OR,

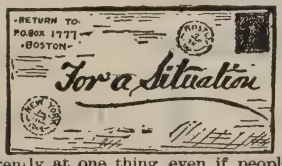
HOW TO DO BUSINESS.

By. PROF. SEYMOUR EATON.

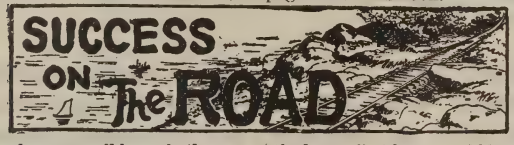
The best Help-Manual ever issued in this country, and proving to every one that has it A Stepping Stone to Success. Each one of the sixty different departments forms a unique feature. Here are the titles of a few:

Banking—Bookkeeping—Business Points for Young Business Men—Character in Hands—Civil Service Examinations—Commercial Arithmetic—Common Blunders Corrected—Compendium of Facts and Figures—Correct Thing in Dress and Manners—Correspondence—Curiosities—Easy Lessons in Astronomy—Every-day Geography—Famous Autographs—Famous Rulers—Figure Shorthand—Games, Puzzles, Conundrums, Kinks and Wrinkles—Good Openings in New Trades—Good Readings and Recitations—Handy Bible Notes—Handy Helps for Bookkeepers—Handy Helps for Coresponding Clerks—Hints on Public Speaking—How to Apply for a Situation—How to Buy and Sell Stocks—How to Conduct a Home Reading Club—How to Do Business—How to Educate Yourself—How to Form a Stock Company—How to Get a Start—How to Get Out a Patent—How to Mark the Price of Goods—How to Read Character from Chins and Noses—How to Write for the Press—How We Are Governed—Interesting Geographical Comparisons—Law Lessons for the People—Languages—Lessons in Electricity—Lessons in French Conversation—Lessons in German Conversation—Lessons in Spelling—Literature, Authors and Books—"Mayflower" Passenger List—Mechanic's Arithmetic—Mechanical Drawing—Opinions of Successful Men—Penmanship—Physical Culture—Practical Lessons in Drawing—Proof Reading—Reporting—Rules of Order for Business Meetings—Science Lessons—Secret Cipher—Shorthand Multiplication—Short Cuts in Figures—Success on the Road—Telegraphy—These Bodies of Ours—United States History, Leading Facts.

But why go further? Get the book and we will guarantee you will say it is away ahead of anything you have seen before.



There is no use applying for a situation if you cannot do anything. Encourage and develop some one talent for the use of which the world offers a money value. The man who can do anything fairly well isn't drawing half the salary of the man who can do one thing better than other people. Do not be afraid of pounding persistently at one thing, even if people do call you a crank. If nothing turns up, turn something up. Don't quit a good position until you are sure of a better one. Remember that the very best positions are secured through promotion and not by answering advertisements. It may be worth your while to study carefully the pages devoted to this subject in The Every-Day Educator. You will find a model application (an answer to an advertisement) on page 116 of this book.



1. Are you a good salesman?
2. Why do some men succeed in almost any kind of drumming, while others fail?

Almost all business men are salesmen in some form or other. There is an old maxim: "When you buy keep one eye on the goods and the other on the seller; when you sell keep both eyes on the buyer." If you would learn the secret read this department of The Every-Day Educator.

No book ever printed gives as much valuable information in so small a space as The Every-Day Educator. Don't fail to get it if you want to be up to date in business or any thing else.

THE EVERY-DAY EDUCATOR contains 256 pages and is handsomely printed, and contains over one hundred illustrations.

Price, in paper cover, 25 cents. Bound in cloth, 75 cents.

Bible Verified, The. By Rev. ANDREW W. ARCHIBALD, D. D. 16mo. Pp. 252, 75c.

"It is a treatise on the evidences of Christianity, but one might read on for many pages without the suggestion of a rigid argument. The easy way in which the reader is led from point to point, hardly sensible of the movement of thought, is quite admirable, and gives a freshness and attractiveness to the book, and should gain for it many readers. Another thing very perceptible in this volume is that the author has read up to the times. The latest objections to the biblical records are considered. The doubts and denials which saturate the literature of our day are in the author's mind, and when not directly mentioned are indirectly answered. The defences of the faith are oftentimes brief, but they are always satisfactory."—Presbyterian, Phila.
